City prepares for festival

The Romulus Central Business District Association, along with St. Aloysius Church, is sponsoring an inaugural Romulus-St. Al's Labor Day Festival which will be held the first week of September 3, 4, 5 and 6.

The festival will coincide with the annual "Polka-Fest" that is hosted by St. Aloysius. Featured during the four-day festivities are: a beauty pageant, antique car show, casino games, street dances, sidewalk sales, an art show and softball tournament.

Anyone who is interested in renting a concession space or booth should contact Gene Perecki at 941-1640 or Tony Kopas at 941-0323.

'Class of 1972 hold reunion

Belleville High graduates of the Class of 1972 who reside in the Romulus and New Boston areas should take note that their classmates are planning a 10-year reunion scheduled for Sept. 25 at the Ramada Inn-Metro.

If a class member hasn't received notice of the reunion, he or she should contact Joyce Renton Hamrick at 763-1476 or Mary Sterzinger Verrot at 699-7103 or Carol Ruff Lockrey at 439-2694.

Tickets are $20 per person or $35 per couple.

Friends to fete Mayor Oakley

Good conversation, music, and excellent food will all be part of Mayor William Oakley's birthday celebration which will be staged on Fri., Aug. 6 beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Romulus.

The $20 per person admission will include cocktails and food.

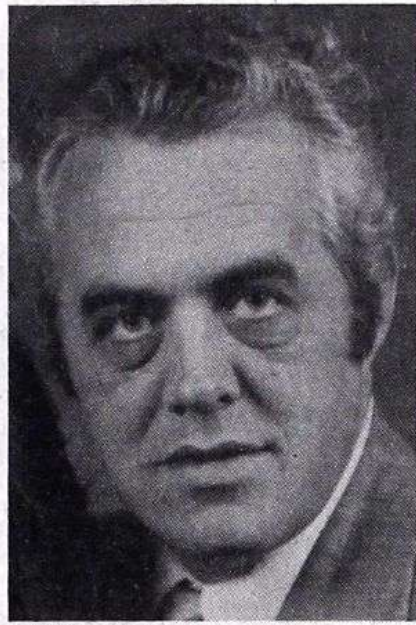

For ticket information, please telephone 941-4274.

Time to sign up for football

With football season right around the corner, the Romulus Athletic Club will hold another in a series of registrations for Little League football. Registration will be held from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Sat., July 31, at the Romulus Public Library.

There is a $20 registration fee per family and prospective players must have a birth certificate at the time of registration.

For further information, please contact Serena Hardrick at 941-2874.

DANIEL R. BALES

Bales elected board president

There is a change in the line-up of the Romulus Board of Education.

The Board recently voted for its 1982-83 school year officers and heading the board will be Dan Bales, who was elected president.

Ken Berlenn, recently elected to the board, will handle the vice president's duties, while Sandra Langley will serve as secretary.

Board trustees also selected Joan Marvicsin as treasurer.

Rounding out the board are trustees Dick Campbell, and newcomers Mary King and Edward Wilkerson. King and Wilkerson were elected in the past June 14 election.

One major problem that will face the school board and the school system will be raising enough monies to keep the school district financially solvent.

50s' Reunion

A "Reunion of the 50's" is planned by Romulus graduates and will be held on Oct. 2 at the UAW Hall on Van Buren Road in Romulus.

The deadline for tickets is Aug. 15. They cost $35 per couple or $17.50 per person.

Those wishing to attend should contact the following persons who will handle tickets according to year of graduation: 1950 - 941-2162; 1951 - 941-9285; 1952 - 941-0627; 1953 - 326-1367; 1954 - 722-9354; 1955 - 941-2831; 1956 - 729-2262; 1957 - 941-4984; 1958 - 697-4232 and 1959 - 941-0320.

Mobile Park proposal tabled Residents protest construction

At the request of the developer, the Romulus Planning Commission last week tabled a request by the Wineman Investment Company to construct a mobile home trailer park that would house approximately 1,000 units.

The proposal to build the park by Henry Wineman has encountered opposition by several residents who informed the Planning Commission by letter that they were opposed to another mobile park in the city.

Romulus presently has two mobile trailer parks on Ecorse Rd., a third is proposed and this proposal by the Wineman officials is the fourth for the city.

The proposed park is on a 200 acre parcel of land presently owned by Wineman. The new construction is planned on Ecorse Rd., between Henry Ruff and Venoy Rd.

"At the request of the petitioner, we unanimously tabled this item," said Pat Hogan, a member of the Planning Commission. "We really don't know why he asked for the request to table."

Wineman was not available for comment at press time yesterday.

In a letter to the Planning Commission, signed by Calvin West and W. M. Quiney, the two residents urged "members of the Planning Commission and the City Legislators, the elected officials to consider our opposition to the trailer park." Quiney and West pointed out that homes in the proposed trailer park area are valued between $50,000 to $60,000.

The writers expressed fears that "if the development was finalized that property values would depreciate considerably."

"Our summer taxes," the letter stated, "just went up from $300 to $500 and at the same time there is this danger that our property value will be depreciated if the rezoning is voted on."

"The property taxes in Romulus are outrageous, yet the city is not going anywhere. We do not have recreation centers like other cities. We do not have shopping centers like other cities. Even Inkster with very little industry has some of the nicest recreation centers and shopping centers..." the letter said.

One other concern the letter raised was the effect a trailer park would have on the local schools. Planning Commissioner invited William Bedell, Superintendent of Schools, to discuss the Supt. Bedell pointed out that for consideration by the Planning Commission.

"As long as we are in formula school district," Bedell said, "the mobile home park would not hurt us financially. However, the children in that park development would delay us from going out of the formula."

Bedell explained that when a school district is "in formula" it means that the property taxes in that particular school district isn't sufficient to support the educational system, therefore the state must provide aid.

"I have talked to superintendents of communities who have similar mobile parks in their districts and they have informed me that we have the same kind of children from the mobile home park that we do from other neighborhoods."

"From a strictly selfish standpoint," Supt. Bedell continued, "We would be better off if the development was located south of the I-94 expressway because that's where we have classrooms and newer buildings available."

Dr. Bedell provided the Planning Commission with a birth rate and enrollment data chart prepared by the Michigan State University Research Department and, quoting from that chart, Bedell said "that declining enrollment is here to stay and children from any type of development are not likely to overload the schools."

Bedell finally indicated "that the plot plans he has seen (of the proposed mobile home park) look attractive, but he was concerned about the several unattractive mobile trailer homes he had seen in the area which may and could damage Romulus' image and property values."

Project S.C.O.R.E. scores

With the help of students employed through Project S.C.O.R.E., the Huron Township sidewalks got a new facelift recently. The students, employed by grant money, laid down the concrete for the sidewalks with the help and supervision of the local DPW. Enjoying the smooth ride are Tara Dyer, 5, and Shannon Dyer, 1½, while township clerk, Mary Lou Carey, watches the action. Also pictured is Chris Gamber, treasurer, who is giving the youngsters some safe driving tips.

Tax Fraud

Romulus man gets jail term

A 48-year-old Romulus man has pleaded guilty of violating the federal tax laws.

James McCain was sentenced last week in United States District Court by Judge Robert DeMascio to serve four years in prison for violating tax laws.

McCain had pleaded guilty on June 7 to one count of preparing false income tax returns and one count of uttering and publishing United States government checks. He was indicted by a federal grand jury on May 5, 1982.

The indictment included nine counts of preparing false income tax returns, punishable by up to three years in prison and three counts of uttering and publishing which is punishable by up to 10 years in prison, according to United States Attorney Leonard R. Gilman.

McCain, who had been convicted of the same offense in 1974, was immediately remanded to the United States Marshal to begin his prison sentence.

The investigation of the case was conducted by the Criminal Investigation Division of the Internal Revenue Service and the United States Secret Service. The case was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Richard L. Delonis.

Taxing issue

The decision by the Wayne County Commission not to lower property valuations below the 50 percent level actually resulted in lower taxes for persons in 233 Wayne County communities, according to state Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland).

Candidates make their points

Dems hear Aug. 10 primary hopefuls

With a new county charter, a new county government structure, reapportionment of districts and an army of political candidates seeking offices, 1982 will definitely see many new faces in political offices.

And it won't be "politics as usual."

A significant part of that army gathered at the VFW hall in Romulus last Tuesday to state their goals and reasons for seeking office.

A hundred or so citizens gathered to hear them at a meeting sponsored by the Western Wayne County Democratic Association.

Twenty-three candidates pursuing offices of Governor, U.S. Congressman, U.S. Senator, State Senator, State Representative, County Executive and County Commissioner expressed divergent philosophies.

Those philosophies ranged from a "States Rights" position, invoking visions of the State of Michigan with a fence around it busily printing its own money, to a "rightist-leftist" advocate who condemned the radical liberals and radical conservatives along with affirmative actions programs as the culprits responsible for economic ills.

There were also the more experienced veterans already holding office and aware of the great distance between the problem and the solution. They pointed to their past accomplishments and promised greater achievements for the future.

In between were the earnest and appealing new candidates identifying the two familiar issues of taxes and unemployment, crime and lack of security offering themselves to listen and to work hard for solutions. Some spoke softly and hesitantly, failing to fill their allotted time while others forcefully overran their time and demanded more.

The audience was interested and responsive, appreciative of the opportunity to meet and talk to candidates who, if elected, will shape the future of Wayne County and the state of Michigan.

One listener summed it up this way: "The ballot has certainly taken on considerable personality as a result of this meeting. For the first time, I associate a face and some personal reaction to their ideas. It's going to affect my vote."

Those candidates in attendance were: Edward C. Pierce, Governor; Gerald R. Carlson, Congress; William Faust, State Senator; Jan Bales, State Senator; Noel Culbert, State Senate; Jim Kosteva, State Representative; Edward Mahalak, State Representative. (See CANDIDATES — Page A-3)

Yanks land Van Buren museum piece

'The plane' goes to Willow Run

The "Airplane" was the main attraction in Van Buren Park. Kids loved it. Parents enjoyed watching as their children grew up before their eyes "to pilot" the plane. And oldtimers reminisced of times when the craft was the key to a victory that helped preserve Western Civilization. The plane was part of the "Arsenal of Democracy".

It will soon become a museum piece as the Van Buren Township Board put its final stamp of approval to donate the archaic piece of aircraft to the Yankee Air Force Museum at Willow Run.

The "Airplane" in Van Buren Park also was one of the assets that helped residents vote "yes" in 1972 in favor of taking Van Buren Park from Detroit Edison. The "Airplane" was part of the package.

For ten years it has been used as playground equipment. Area children could sit in the cockpit, balance on a wing or climb the latter into the belly of the plane, crawl through the fuselage and slide out the tail section.

Adults would admire it. Touch it. And wonder about its history. But for Van Buren Township officials it has been a liability.

So, when the Yankee Air Force asked the board to give them the plane for their museum at Willow Run Airport township attorney Richard James gave the go ahead to draw up the proper papers.

Many children have been injured on the aircraft, either from jagged metal or falls, so to have the plane restored by the Yankee Air Force is a good solution to the problem for the township and a valuable gift to the Yankee Air Force, who will spend the next two years restoring the aircraft. The aircraft is an RF-84K, Reconnaissance Fighter. Built in 1952 by Republic Aircrafts, it is only one of 25 made in the United States.

A Photo Reconnaissance plane this fighter was used for strategic reconnaissance deep in enemy territory. In the nose, were cameras capable of securing horizon to horizon photographs.

After a mission the fighter returned for the homeward journey in the belly of the B-36. The fighter, while in flight, approached the bomber with its flaps down, to raise its nose. Then after being hooked, was half drawn into the bomber.

The pilot then climbed out of the fighter to rest in the bomber before his next mission.

The RF-84K could travel at a top speed of 720 m.p.h. and had a loaded weight of 27000 lbs. It has a wing span of 33 feet.

Moved from Van Buren Park on Saturday by 12 members of the YAF, a crane and a flat bed trailer the 47 ft. fighter may be joined at the Willow Run Hanger by another RF-84. The YAF members are interested in the RF-84F which is located in front of Master Craft in Romulus.

"We are very pleased to have this RF-84K, it is the first addition to our museum of a plane we own," said Dennis Norton, president of the Yankee Air Force. There are planes in the hanger but they are privately owned. The fighter will be restored to look like new but will never be flyable. All labor is free through members help.

"What we have to depend on is getting aircraft at little or no cost and be able to restore them,"

Romulus resident awards' recipient

A Romulus resident has received a quarterly employee recognition award for performance above her job expectation from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan (BCBSM).

Diane Sasu, a data entry production assistant was among 27 winners chosen from the monthly Pride in Excellence (P.I.E.) award winners.

"These awards recognize employees who have been performing at the full extent of their capabilities," said John C. McCabe, BCBSM president.

Semi-annual winners are chosen from quarterly recipients and are eligible for gift or money awards.

Group home site selection procedures draw criticism

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Local and state officials have joined forces in an attempt to block the proposed construction of an adult foster care home for six severely mentally impaired persons in Wayne's Glenwood Heights Subdivision.

According to Community Development Director John Zech, officials at the Northville Residential Training Center have three options in the construction of their Alternative Intermediate Services home: 1) seek a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals to build the 2,000-square-foot facility; 2) change the design, or 3) seek a new site.

"Maybe they (state mental health agencies) see this as a signal that everyone in Wayne is going to lay down on this issue. Personally, I've had no problems with the facility next to me."

Wayne city councilmen reiterated their opposition to the lack of local input in the decision making process regarding foster care facimentally ill;

- Adult foster care licenses should be limited to one per owner;
- All budgets for the operation of group homes should be reviewed by the Department of Management and Budget.

"Legal actions taken by the City of Wayne have not been successful

"There's something seriously wrong in the way the state is placing these homes. Dearborn and Dearborn Heights have only six homes between them and Wayne has five. There's an evident pattern. The communities where bricks are being thrown are not being touched. In Wayne we've never torched a place or done anything wacky — we've been cooperative."

—Brian Crowe,
Wayne Foster Care Committee

City Engineer Ralph Magid reported that the site plan for the one-level structure, which would be located at the southwest corner of Glenwood Road and Laurenwood Drive, failed to adhere to city codes and ordinances. A building permit could not be granted due to the lack of available space between the side street and the house, he added.

The building code violation had been revealed last Wednesday night by Councilman Mike Brown at a meeting of nearly 200 concerned citizens at the Wayne Community Center.

Following the session, State Sen. William Faust and State Rep. Edward Mahalak sent a letter to C. Patrick Babcock, director of the Department of Mental Health, in which they recommended that an alternative site be found for the home.

In their correspondence the legislators pointed out that "the proposed home would not be able to comply with the local zoning site specifications and still serve functionally as a barrier-free home."

"The lot being located at a busy intersection would cause further adverse conditions for the residents," said the legislators, who heard last Wednesday the complaints of elected officials, administrators and homeowners regarding the placement of foster care facilities in local communities.

The proposed home would include a living room, kitchen, family room, two baths, utility and furnace rooms, three bedrooms and a two-car garage with extra-wide hallways to accommodate wheelchairs.

A number of Wayne residents vehemently denounced the system used to bring the handicapped, retarded and mentally ill into local neighborhoods. The City of Wayne presently has five licensed mental health "group homes with another three licenses pending," the Northville Center developers reported.

"There's something seriously wrong in the way the state is placing lities.

They pointed to a resolution adopted last August by the council, outlining the following proposals for foster care home licensing:

- The State should adopt a fair share policy based on patient population regarding the placement of the handicapped and the retarded;
- Cities and townships must be made an integral part in the planning and placement of these facilities;
- A fair share policy could be linked to the reimbursement of state

"The results of our cooperation is that the city is worse off than before. Now we're being inundated with requests. The fear in our neighborhoods is real."

— Wayne Councilman Mike Brown

these homes," declared Brian Crowe, who resides next to a foster care home, "Dearborn and Dearborn Heights have only six homes between them, and Wayne has five."

"There's an evident pattern," Crowe, a member of Wayne's Adult Foster Care Committee, added. "The communities where bricks are being thrown are not being touched. In Wayne we've never torched a place or done anything wacky — we've been cooperative.

funds for various programs to encourage compliance;

- The State should stop processing all adult foster care licenses until the present legislation is reviewed and a fair share policy adopted;
- The State should increase the level of staffing and better train the individuals that operate group homes;
- An alternate program should be developed for the placement of the

A mighty effort....

It was a battle bravely fought... and Jason Savino, 8, of Cub Scout Pack 758 was in the fray as local Scouts gathered last week at the annual Cub Scout Day Camp at Attwood Park. The tug-o-war was only one of the numerous activities of the day-long adventure. Unfortunately, there were no confirmed reports of Jason's success in his mighty endeavor, but if effort counts, he's a sure-fire winner.

Fire levels historic site

Inkster firefighters fought a blaze yesterday at a boarded-up structure on Michigan Ave. The fire, which caused the much-traveled Michigan Ave. traffic to back up for a mile, leveled the building, however, no one was injured. "The building had been boarded up for some time," a firefighter said, "and no one was in the structure. But the place has quite a history. It was a swap shoppe at one time.

Ex-Van Buren police chief may sue over recall ballot language

Former Van Buren Police Chief George Montgomery said that he may take legal action against those who "are trying to use me as a scapegoat in this recall."

Montgomery said that his anger stems from the printed language on the Aug. 10 primary ballot which calls for a special election to determine whether five members of the board: Supervisor Patricia Cullin, clerk Doreen Craven, treasurer and police commissioner Tom Welty, and trustees Tim Toohy and Chester Wojcie should be ousted or remain in office.

"I recently saw an absentee ballot for the recall," Montgomery said, "and found that once again the Van Buren 5 are trying to use me for a scapegoat."

"To quote Trustee Chester Wojcie: 'They're grasping for straws, again.' The Van Buren 5 made a mistake and are not humble enough to admit it, so I have found it necessary to request this newspaper to reprint a letter dated Dec. 29 that I wrote prior to the recall."

"My feelings in the letter of Dec. 29 are the same as they are today," Montgomery said.

What Montgomery found objectionable in the recall election ballot language is that the "statement of Chester Wojcie in justification of his conduct in office"... points out... the former Police Commander's qualifications and background were investigated by the then Police Chief, George Montgomery prior to approval of hiring of the Police Commander as a policeman..."

The Board hired Richard Debs as a patrolman, then later named him to a newly-created position of police commander. Five members of the board face recall for that action.

In a letter to this newspaper dated Dec. 29, Montgomery stated that...

"Because of the news articles of late (Ypsi Press & Detroit News), the Special Board Meeting called to discuss the problem that I attended at 8:30 this morning, I feel the need to clarify my position... my name continues to enter into the subject."

"On the information given to me by Police Commissioner Welty and Commander Debs, I did a pre-employment check — it revealed no criminal history. At that time however, I was unaware that Mr. Debs could have another identity (per the Detroit News Article Sunday, 12/27/81). I now wonder if I was given all of the pertinent information available at that time."

"My PROTEST (quoted in this same article) was that my hands were tied, the appointment of Mr.

Debs was not the only problem. Let me explain... The last Chain of Command Schedule that I received was as follows: 1 — Supervisor Cullin; 2 — Police Commissioner Welty; 3 — Deputy Police Commander Chester Wojcie; 4 — Commander Richard Debs, and finally 5 — Chief George Montgomery."

"Any move that I made had to be approved by the above, continuously being bogged down by Politicians wanting to play Police. New schedules and reorganizations issued by the above appeared frequently without having ever consulted me."

"My frustrations brought me to the point of resignation, and so I confronted Commissioner Welty and Commander Debs — they told me they would not accept it, wanted me to stay, said to keep my car, remain as Chief and collect my salary. This was not a solution to any problem as I saw it."

"Commissioner Welty was well aware of the long working hours that I was putting in between the two jobs. Speaking to Neighborhood Groups who were forming Neighborhood Watches, Planning the formation of the Reserves, serving on the Board of Belleville Central Dispatch and various other meetings with groups and individual citizens as required of the Chief."

There's a doc in the township

Sumpter Township residents have rolled out the welcome mat for Dr. Glaucio H. Bechara (second front left), a doctor of osteopathy who said that he was overwhelmed by the welcome he and his staff have received in the area. With Dr. Bechara are Sumpter

Impressed by community, a doctor comes to Sumpter

"We're always happy to see people relocate into our township, and when that person is a businessman or a professional person, we're extremely happy."

That's how Jim Reeves, Sumpter Township Supervisor, welcomed Dr. Glaucio H. Bechara, who opened his office doors at 19421 Sumpter Rd. on July 6.

Reeves said he was extremely pleased at the doctor's decision because the township has many senior citizens. "Do you know he also makes house calls?" Reeves said.

Dr. Bechara said he came to Sumpter "because of the friendliness of the residents and the receptiveness of the area."

Bechara 42, is a native of Brazil, who was awarded his degree in New York City and received his medical degree at the College of Osteopathic Medicine at Michigan State University. His internship was at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills.

A resident of Belleville for little less than two years, Bechara became enchanted by the United States through its movies and movie stars, and his one ambition, he said, was to come to this country and see it for himself.

"I immediately fell in love with the United States," Bechara said. It was a dream come true. Yes, this country has its problems but what country doesn't? Compare the United States with any other country and there is no comparison."

Bechara explained that osteopathy is a medical science which approaches the patient on a holistic level. "We look at the whole unit of the body functions and systems — we seek solutions by treating disease as it relates to the environment."

A multi-lingualist - he can speak Portuguese, Spanish, Italian and French fluently.

Bechara said he became attached to the township one day when he drove through the area, an area he says that is similar to his native Brazil.

And, after making some inquiries and learning that the township had never had a permanent doctor he decided to put out his proverbial shingles. "The response has been great - I have about 50 new patients," Dr. Bechara said.

You find the doctor in his offices from 9:30 to 12:30 p.m. and 2 to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on Mondays and Thursdays, the office is open until 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

Patients are urged to make an appointment by telephoning 699-2950.

And if you can't speak English, try Portuguese, Spanish, or Italian or French. Bechara can handle them all.

Get ready for turkey shoot

The Motor City Sportsmen's Association announced that they will hold a Turkey Shoot and Barbecue on Sunday August 1st, 1982 starting at 10 a.m. The affair will take place at The Tom Freeman Country Club located at 28321 Sumpter Road, New Boston (Belleville).

There will be trapshooting in which men and women will be able to compete against each other either in groups or on an individual basis.

There will be classes for beginners and instructions for the more advanced student. Free instructions will be given to those persons who would like to learn how to shoot.

Cash prizes and turkeys will be awarded to the best shooters. The all day picnic will feature games for the kids as well as pony rides and hay rides. This will be a family affair.

Proceeds from the turkey shoot will be donated to the Boy Scouts of America.

Council rescinds vote on PCHA proposal

Following a report by three representatives of the People's Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), the Inkster City Council Monday night rescinded its six-week-old resolution opposing future programs that would increase the hospital group's bonded indebtedness.

Addressing the council were Inkster's two representatives on the PCHA Board of Directors, Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne and Hiram McNeely, and Tom Lesondak, the authority's director of fiscal affairs.

The resolution, originally approved on June 7, strongly opposed the PCHA's construction of a medical office building, nursing home or any other program that would create more bonded indebtedness.

The issue of the PCHA's finances had erupted several months ago when it was reported that the hospital authority had a fund surplus of some $27 million, while most of the 24 member communities were suffering from budgetary restraints. The PCHA is funded by a special levy of 4 mills in Inkster and the other 23 participating communities.

"Quite frankly, we were disappointed you did not come to the two of us representing you on the board for answers to your questions," LeCesne said. "Apparently somewhere along the way there was a break in communications."

McNeely, a member of the PCHA board since 1967, said "misleading information" about the hospital group's plans has been in circulation. He said the PCHA has incurred no bonded indebtedness since the building of Heritage Hospital in Taylor several years ago.

"I don't know why some people want to destroy (the PCHA)," McNeely said. "You do not come into an organization of this size and try to dismantle it overnight. I was chagrined by your action (of June 7)."

Councilman James J. Collieran said the resolution was not designed to destroy the authority.

"I don't think it was this body's intent to dismantle the PCHA, and we don't question the need for hospitals," Collieran said.

"What worried this body was the word that you had amassed a $29 million surplus. This year we wrote out a check for more than $65,000 for our annual contribution, yet we have had to have layoffs and cut-backs here."

"We're scrounging for money," Collieran continued. "We've contributed to the PCHA all these years — why can't they help us?"

Lesondak said that the surplus, called the funded depreciation account, has been accumulating since the 1950s and must be kept aside to purchase and replace equipment and facilities.

Among the programs paid for out of the fund is a new data processing plan for maintaining medical and financial records, he said. The data processing program is now in the second year of a proposed seven-year plan, and a special department employing more than 30 people has already been created, he said.

"A lot of things the authority has been doing are aimed at maintaining its fiscal and technological integrity," Lesondak said.

LeCesne noted that another project paid for out of the funded depreciation account was the badly needed overhaul of the PCHA's telephone system at a cost of $2.4 million.

"If we didn't have those monies available, we would have had to abandon the project," LeCesne said.

While commending the council for its efforts to protect the taxpayers' money, LeCesne said that the hospital group must have the funds on hand so that up-to-date equipment and facilities can be offered.

"We are trying to keep up with the ever-changing face of medicine," he said. "If we are going to keep pace with technology and remain competitive, we will have to make major purchases, renovations and possibly expansions."

Councilman Patrick O'Neil, who expressed doubts that any new facilities are needed, tried to have the rescind question tabled until the next meeting. His motion, however, died from lack of support.

Moving to rescind the resolution was Councilman Joseph Davis Jr., and he was seconded by Councilman Ernest Hendricks.

In addition to Heritage Hospital, the PCHA owns and operates Ann Arbor Memorial Hospital in Wayne, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park and Seaway in Trenton.

stressed Norton. "Funds are limited and a majority of our funds we are trying to save to buy a B-24, the cost will be two or three hundred thousand dollars."

The Yankee Air Force Museum will not be open until next spring so there is time to help launch this project. With a membership of 800 there is still a need for members. Also anyone who knows where to find military aircraft, regardless of age, or any historic aircraft at least 30 years old, plane parts, photos, uniforms, or any item that may be used in the museum, contact Dennis Norton at 482-5548.

A big band dinner dance will be held Aug. 14 at the Yankee Air Force hanger building 2041, at Willow Run Airport. Performing will be The Ambassadors Band, 17 piece 1940's Big Band. Tickets priced at $15 per person will include dinner, dancing, and entertainment. All proceeds go to the YAF B-24 fund. Contact Cindy Smith at 487-5965 for further information.

It's a Yank museum piece

Off to a new home in the Yankee Air Force museum, this flying piece of history will get a facelift and new polish thanks to those who love air ships and flying. The RF-84 was donated to the museum by the Van Buren Township Board so that it could be preserved and cherished by future generations. The Yankee Air Force museum is housed in a hangar at the Willow Run Airport in Ypsilanti.

Van Buren hosts foster care talks

Concerned over the proliferation of foster care homes in the area and state, a group of area residents have asked state mental health authorities to answer questions.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thurs., July 29, at the Van Buren Township Hall.

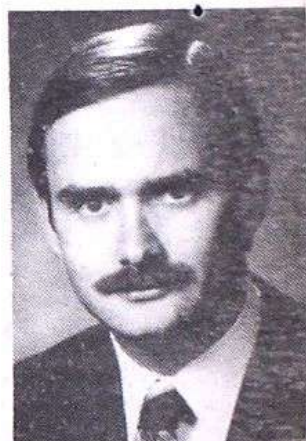

Joseph Bongiorno is the spokesman for the group who organized the public meeting.

"We have invited residents to join and report on a major meeting among The Directors of the State Mental Health Department, The State Department of Licensing

F.C.H., The Van Buren Twp. Board of Trustees, State House and Senate Representatives, Attorney, Realtors, and an extremely angry and upset public, said "As you know, this issue is heating up all around and it's time we bring to an end this forced action without notice of state mentally retarded institutions in single-family residential districts. Our organization will not stop in the courts. Instead we are determined to bring this matter to the House floor in the passage of a bill which regains 'fairness and equality' for all," he said.

Blue Cross creates new division to aid area senior citizens

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan has established a new department to respond to the needs of its retired subscribers and named a coordinator of senior citizen activities to head it, executive vice-president William E. Stevenson announced today.

The coordinator is Sandra Riach of Detroit, an educator with a wide background of experience in health care plan operation. For the last two years she has worked in a BCBSM program to insure that the health care coverage needs of retired auto workers were met, Stevenson said.

"Her last assignment prepared her well to expand existing BCBSM programs aimed at reaching out to our older subscribers to help them solve the twin problems of how to stay in good health and how to get good health care when it's needed," Stevenson declared.

Ms. Riach said "one of my first assignments will be to identify unmet health care concerns and issues that trouble retired subscribers and to work with senior citizen groups and individuals to ease those concerns and attempt to find solutions to the issues at the local, state and national level."

Stevenson said that BCBSM is also exploring the formation of an advisory council of senior citizen subscribers from around the state to aid Ms. Riach in her new responsibilities.

Mrs. Riach will report to Richard A. Femmel, vice president for corporate communications, Stevenson said.

Currently several BCBSM departments operate programs to help senior citizen subscribers with educational seminars, health testing and explanation of Medicare benefits and BCBSM complementary coverage.

These programs, which are available to both group and non-group subscribers, include:

- Project Health-O-Rama screening programs in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids.
- Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) training sessions.
- More than 60 Brown Bag programs this year in which a pharmacist explains to groups of seniors the importance of keeping track of medications.
- More than 90 meetings this year in which a BCBSM expert on Medicare explained to senior citizen groups how the federal program works and how BCBSM supplements the federal coverage.
- Sponsorship of the senior olympics and fitness walks and runs.

Seniors offered health screening

Adults in out-Wayne County can take advantage of a special health screening projected being conducted by the Wayne County Department of Health.

Open to persons 21 years of age and older, a health screening team will provide a wide range of screening services to include a health history and physical assessment, height and weight measurement, blood pressure, temperature, pulse, respiration, pap smear, glaucoma, hearing and vision testing, health counseling, and referrals. Minor laboratory tests also will be done.

The goal of the health project is to assist adults in gaining access to necessary medical care and community resources to promote the individuals health and well-being.

Persons interested should call the Health Department at 274-2800 or 729-2211, ext. 258, for an appointment. Screening locations are the South Health Center, Eureka Road at I-75 in Taylor; the Whitman Center at 32235 W. Chicago, Livonia; and the health department in the Wayne County General Hospital complex on Merriman Road in Westland.

Campaign '82

Jahr to seek re-election to Van Buren township board

The position that the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees offered to Thurston Jahr in March, he will seek on his own in August. Jahr was named to the board to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Domen.

The one elective office for Van Buren Township will appear on the August 10 Primary ballot, that of trustee on the Township Board.

Jahr, a retired local architect, is now a candidate in the Democratic Primary to serve the balance of the unexpired term.

"I like to finish what I start," Jahr said. Jahr has been a resident of Van Buren for 27 years. His wife, Marjorie, is a former teacher in the Van Buren Public Schools, and his three children all are graduates of the Van Buren school system. At present, Jeffrey is an attorney in Westland, Jonathon is an interior designer in Orange County, California, and Mary Spencer is a speech pathologist for the Shiawassee County Intermediate School District in Owosso.

Jahr is a member of the Michigan Society of Architects and of the American Institute of Architects.

He established the firm of T.R. Jahr, Associates in 1945, with headquarters in Dearborn, and gained national recognition and several awards for excellence in the design of educational facilities. The firm continued the practice of architecture and engineering until Jahr's retirement in 1980.

Local area work includes: in Van Buren Township, South Junior High School, North Junior High School, and the recent addition to the Belleville High School; in Wayne, the John Glenn High School, and Wayne Memorial High School; the Romulus High School; and Wyandotte High School.

Jahr has a long record for community service. He was twice named "Citizen of the Year" for "distinguished community citizenship and contributions to Dearborn civic life." Also, "For his civic interest in design and planning of the city and community of Dearborn as shown by his services on the City Planning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals."

Also, "For his interest in education as shown by his work with the Parent Teachers Association."

He has been active in many community service organizations including: president of the University of Michigan Alumni Club; president of the Parent-Teachers Association; chairman of the Dearborn Hospital Commission; member of the Boys' Club board of directors; member of the Belle Harbor Civic Association board of directors; member of Kiwanis and Elks clubs.

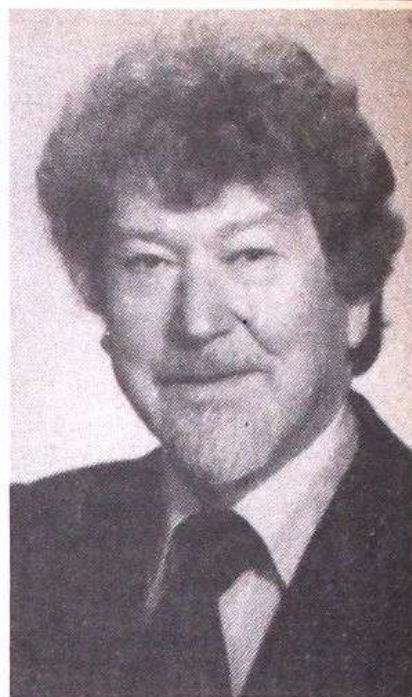

He was appointed to the National Board of Arbitrators by the American Arbitration Association, and serves at present in this capacity as arbitrator for the settlement of construction industry disputes.

Although he has never before been a candidate for political office, Jahr is no stranger to the democratic political process. He has been a long time member of the Democratic party, and was elected two times as precinct delegate from Van Buren. He is the only candidate to receive the endorsement of the Fifteenth District Democratic Party for the office of trustee in this primary election.

Jahr believes that his background in managing a successful professional business for 35 years, his experience in city planning and zoning, as well as his basic knowledge in engineering are valuable attributes for the office of township trustee.

He said: "Since my retirement, I am in a position to devote the time and effort necessary to serve in this capacity, and I believe that I can make a contribution to my community."

According to Cadaret's poll

State representative race is wide open

According to the results of a poll conducted by the Committee to Elect Roger Cadaret, the State Representative race is up for grabs in Romulus.

Michael Renick, a Livonia economist, who was commissioned by Cadaret to conduct a telephone poll says, "We were shocked to see some of the results of the poll."

One of the questions was "Are you familiar with the name Edward Mahalak," and 34% of the registered voters polled said no! I understand this man has represented Romulus for about 18 years and they don't even know his name.

Regarding the direct confrontation between Cadaret and Mahalak, the poll showed that if the election were held between July 13 and 20, Mahalak would have gotten only 18% of the vote while Cadaret would have received 9%.

When asked about the two to one margin, Cadaret said: "It's beautiful! We are three weeks away from the Primary and this 18 year incumbent has only 18%. There are 73% undecided and that's a huge plus for me. Any incumbent who has so many people undecided is in real trouble."

Renick also reported that the poll shows Cadaret has a name identity problem. Even though he has been very active in the Romulus schools his name is recognized by only 19% of the voters. However, he adds that "of those that said they were familiar with both Mahalak and Cadaret, about two-thirds or 70% said they would support Cadaret."

Of those that said they knew

Mahalak, only 28% have decided to vote for him, while Cadaret is supported by 39% of the voters who have heard of him. "What this indicates," says Renick, "is that Romulus voters are looking for a change. Maybe they are looking for a younger and more aggressive representative. But, one thing is certain, as a whole, they are not satisfied with Mr. Mahalak."

Other important results of the poll were that Romulus is destined to vote heavily Democratic even though 48% of the voters are undecided. Some 43% intend to pull the Democratic lever while only 9% would support Republicans.

On the other issues, only 27% of Romulus voters supported the recent State income tax increase, while the remainder felt it was not the best way to cope with the state's fiscal crisis.

Also, in regard to property taxes, only 24% agree that the value of their property should be the basis for the school and local taxes they pay.

Most of the voters queried (71%) felt that schools should be supported by a different means, while 14% were undecided on the issue. In his comment, Cadaret said "I've been complaining for years that property taxes are archaic and have no relevance to the world we live in. Schools should be supported by the general fund of the state to insure that all kids get an equal education, at least from a financial standpoint."

When asked what priority education deserved, those voters being polled indicated they felt education was the number one financial priority in Michigan. When given a mock budget of $100 the respondents were asked to allocate the amount to five state services (average recommended): Education (41%), Welfare (11%), Prisons & Crime (17%), Highways (18%), Environmental Protection (13%).

Cadaret responded, "this clearly verifies that the Michigan Constitution was intended to insure good education. The people still feel we should spend more of our money on education. When I get to Lansing, I will work hard to make this desire a reality."

According to Renick, the poll was designed for a 95% confidence level and to be accurate within plus or minus 5%.

ROGER CADARET

Kosteva goes door to door

Jim Kosteva, the door-to-door candidate in the 37th District State Representatives' race, is suggesting friends "jump on the bandwagon" and join him at a party on Thursday, August 5.

The rally will be held at Rogalle's Lounge, 11175 Haggerty Road at I-94 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Kosteva, current Planning Director for Canton Township, is seeking election in the newly created 37th District which includes Belleville, part of Canton, Romulus, Van Buren Township and Wayne.

"I have met hundreds of people at their doorstep who said I was the first candidate to ever visit them in person. The rally will give an opportunity for these new supporters to join with old friends as we wrap-up an exciting campaign."

Kosteva, who has also staged ice cream socials and organized a debate in his attempts to reach voters in this new district, is encouraging residents to come to Rogalle's and join in some fun.

Hors-d'oeuvres and an open bar will be available. Donations for the party are $10 per person, $15 per couple. Tickets are available by calling Kosteva at 397-8550 or Gary Sands at 981-0563.

Here's how to fight child abuse

Under a new law, Michigan's 1982 tax forms will be the nation's first to provide the option of an automatic voluntary donation to fight child abuse.

Taxpayers, who are entitled to refunds will be able to check a box on the form to donate $2 of their refund to a newly-established children's trust fund.

The check-off will remain until the trust fund reaches $20 million. Then the programs would be financed from the interest of the money in the account. As the trust grows, half of the fund will be used for local programs, while the remaining half is invested.

"The abuse and neglect of children is a persistent problem in our society that cuts across all economic, geographic and cultural boundaries. I think this 'check-off' bill provides a promising voluntary method of raising money to support child abuse-neglect prevention programs," said Rep. Sylvia Skrel of Westland, who co-sponsored the legislation.

Gov. Milliken signed the bill into law earlier this month, making Michigan the fourth state to adopt the trust idea and the first state to finance it with tax refunds.

"With an estimated 35,000 or more cases of child abuse every year it is time to establish prevention programs at the local level," Skrel added. "In times of tight budgets, the need for prevention programs can appear less compelling than the need for other services, but I feel the prevention of child abuse is a top priority," Skrel concluded.

Candidates to debate

Roger Cadaret and Jim Kosteva, two of the candidates for the Democratic nomination for the 37th legislative district, will meet in a debate at the Wayne Community Center at 8 p.m., July 28. The debate will be moderated by Mayor Pat Norton of Wayne.

Kosteva, organizer of the debate, expressed his satisfaction with the arrangements. "I am glad that the voters in the 37th district will have the opportunity to hear my views and be able to compare them with the positions of at least one of my opponents. Because of reapportionment, most of the voters in the district will be electing a new representative. This debate will let them get to know the candidates better than the other candidate forums where the time is more restricted."

Kosteva also said that he appreciated the help of Mayor Norton in making the arrangements and hosting the debate.

The 37th District includes the cities of Belleville, Romulus and Wayne as well as Van Buren and part of Canton Township.

Candidates Ed Mahalak and Betty Jo Price reportedly declined Kosteva's invitation to debate.

'Y' plans summer fun

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Some 180 days a year, youngsters look forward to their summer break from school, but it seems that half way through that almost three months away from the classroom, summer starts to lag.

Not so at the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA, which has an answer to the summertime blues for youngsters through 12 years of age. The answer is the Y's Summer Day Camp for those 6 through 12 years, and Crispy Critters, a half day program for youngsters 3 to 5 years.

The day camp program is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, with babysitting available before and after to accommodate working parents.

According to Kathy Pilon, the camp is a combination of fun and learning, "not necessarily an educational program, but more than just play."

The one-week sessions have themes, like Frontier Week, when the "campers" worked on leather; Olympics Week, when they held their own competition at neighboring Marshall Junior High School, complete with ribbons they made; and Michigan Week that ended up with the youngsters baking apple cobbler.

This week's theme is centering around flag football, and the youngsters have been busy learning the rules of the game, tie-dyeing team shirts, learning cheers and similar football related activities in preparation for the big game tomorrow afternoon.

The morning camp activity centers on the week's theme, while the afternoon involves the learning experience. Pilon pointed out that while there is some learning behind the afternoon program, the participants are encouraged to use their imagination.

The camp also includes a 45-minute swim lesson in which participants are grouped according to their ability. An open swim is included in the afternoon program, and for those youngsters who would rather stay dry, there's activities available in the lobby.

While the Y is ready and waiting for participants, enrollments this summer are down from what was anticipated, down 10 percent, according to Pilon. The program has averaged 20 to 25 children a week, when plans were to handle up to 60 campers at a time.

The Y has eight to 10 teens trained to serve as counselors, who are "waiting to get out and work with the children," if the enrollment climbs.

Considering the economic problems of the state, and Western Wayne County specifically, the Y is offering a 10 percent discount for campers who bring a new friend, as well as for the friend, and if a child is registered for up to four consecutive weeks. If there is more than one youngster from one family in the camp, the second child pays only half the $35 per week charge for members and $40 per week charge for non-members.

The Y also has a daily rate of $7 for members and $8 for non-members.

Mary Rose Cartwright, who works with Crispy Critters, pointed out that the two camps "can give a youngster the experience of a day camp without the child having to be sent to a residential camp that's so expensive."

She added that the benefits include socialization, "a talent that the youngsters can take back to school in the fall."

Attendance in Crispy Critters also is down, and Cartwright agrees with Pilon that with at least one parent in most families in Western Wayne County employed, the need for such programs this year isn't so great.

Crispy Critters helps prepare youngsters for kindergarten, although the program is geared to nature and more physical, out-of-door activities.

For the younger "critters" the program meets two days a week for two hours. The program is geared to swimming and socialization.

The older children are on a three day a week, with more structured activities, including swimming, crafts and learning an awareness of themselves as boys and girls.

Crispy Critters cost $10 per week for members and $12.50 per week for non-members for the three-day a week program and $7.50 and $8.75 per week for the two-day sessions.

The 10 percent discounts also are applicable, while the second child in a family registered receives a 20 percent discount.

In surveying the program Pilon said the participants take to it "very well," adding that they like the play outside and the games.

Further information on the camps can be obtained by contacting the YMCA at 721-7044.

W-W taxpayers press board

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

They came to talk taxes Monday night, and talk they did, letting the Wayne-Westland Board of Education know in no uncertain terms that they favor rolling back the district's operational millage 2.164 mills.

A standing room only crowd turned out for the public hearing, required by the state's Truth in Taxation Act. The district is considering capturing the 6 percent increase in the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of property district-wide.

The act, which took effect this year, requires that all taxing bodies—city, county and school districts—reduce, or rollback, the millage rate to correspond with the increase in the total value of existing taxable property so that the yield, or revenue, does not increase from one year to the next.

That rollback, however, can be reversed by a special vote of the legislative body, in the case of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, the Board of Education, provided the vote is preceded by an advertised public hearing.

According to the district's business manager, John Baracy, the rollback not only will cost the district a loss of $1,573,699 in local tax revenue, it also will represent an estimated $811,159 loss in state school aid, since the latter is determined by the amount of millage levied by a school district.

Baracy said the rollback for some residents would represent a $60 savings, although when $36 loss in Homestead Property Tax Credit and $14 more paid to the federal government because of lower property taxes are figured in, the savings is only $10. For the school district a $60 savings for the taxpayer translates into an estimated $80 loss in state aid.

While homeowners are hoping for a break from the tax burden—the district has a millage rate of 40.65 mills for operations (including the 2.164-mill rollback) and 7 mills for debt retirement—even if the rollback is allowed to stand, their taxes will increase 3 percent due to increase in property assessment, Baracy pointed out.

Ray Brewer, speaking "for most of the citizens" at the meeting confessed confusion over the tax issue, telling board trustees that "over the back fence I've heard we're going to get anywhere from a $2,400 increase to a $60 decrease in taxes."

"I have to put this in terms of my mortgage payment," he explained. "My total tax burden a few years ago was $1,200. Last year it was in excess of $2,000. If this goes through, you'll be forcing a lot of average homeowners out of their average homes."

County to begin random testing of leaded gasoline

In a move to deter illegal fuel switching by distributors and at retail service stations, the Air Pollution Control Division of the Wayne County Department of Health is beginning a program of sampling unleaded gasoline at random stations, distributors and other suppliers in metropolitan Detroit.

The sampling is aimed at determining if these suppliers are in compliance with federal lead standards for unleaded gasoline.

A total of 1,500 fuel samples are to be taken annually, and this accumulated evidence will provide the basis for possible legal action by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. If lead levels exceed federal standards, violators will be cited. This EPA-funded program is part of the continuing effort to distribute air quality responsibilities between Federal and Local Authorities.

When leaded gas is used in cars requiring unleaded, lead deposits form inside the engine and contribute to engine wear. In addition, the use of leaded gasoline may void an auto warranty.

"Fuel-switching costs the consumer in auto repair bills each year," said William C. Achinger, director of the Air Pollution Control Division of the Wayne County Department of Health. "Most importantly, the public health is a very real factor. The use of unleaded gas will produce fewer tailpipe emissions of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and lead resulting in improved air quality."

David Kee, director of the Air Management Division of U.S. EPA in Chicago, noted that the current program focuses on actual offenders of the Clean Air Act.

"This is a positive step in improving our air quality," Kee said. "Fuel-switching nationwide is becoming a problem because these offending outlets serve so many automobiles. In order for the fuel program to be successful, the number of violators must be reduced."

Kee observed that most autos on the road today are equipped with emission control systems. Unknown to many consumers, fuel-switching defeats the functioning of the catalytic converter within these systems, resulting in more air pollution, engine wear and less fuel economy.

"Citizens in the area who are suspicious of the levels of lead in their gasoline can contact the Wayne County Department of Health at 224-4650," said Achinger.

Friends honor Fortson

By ADELE S. NEWSON

"I'm grateful for all my friends who are here...it's nice when things like this come to you at this age," said Henry E. Fortson.

The Inkster Public Library and Historical Commission recently paid tribute to Fortson, educator and retired principal of Inkster High School, during a program held at the library.

Fortson worked in the Inkster Public School District for some 28 years. He gained state-wide recognition in 1943 when he became the first black man to serve as principal of a Michigan high school, Inkster High. He worked in this capacity for 21 years. Fortson retired in 1971, after having devoted 42 years of service to education.

Fortson has also affiliated himself with many service organizations. He has worked with the Boy Scouts of America, the Inkster Youth Commission, the Inkster Youth Homes Commission, and many other community service groups.

In answering criticism of his students, "Mr. Fortson always pointed to the other one, the one who would make you proud..." recalled Fortson's former student Lawrence Chastang.

His honors and professional affiliations are numerous. Among them, the Inkster Board of Education named and dedicated the Inkster High School auditorium for him; he is listed in Who's Who in American Education, Who's Who Among Black Americans, and the National Roster of Black Elected Officials. He is a member of the NAACP, the Prince Hall Masons, and the Morehouse College Alumni Club.

"It is an honor and a privilege to talk about a man of substance," remarked Inkster Councilman Ernest Hendricks, who is also a former student of Fortson's. "...that substance lies in his belief that service to humanity is the best work of life." Councilman Hendricks added.

Fortson sat quietly through the program with hands folded and legs still. His calm brown eyes, obscured by black glasses, watched attentively as friends, former colleagues and students paid tribute to him. At his side sat his wife of 51 years.

"He has always impressed me as a good family man. Throughout the years, wherever Mr. Fortson was seen, Mrs. Fortson was at his side," observed John Shannon, admirer of Fortson.

Local CETA trainees blossom

The Extension Horticulture Work/Study Program is inviting the public to come view their extensive demonstrations projects and horticulture displays as the Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne.

The projects were put together by the teen-age CETA trainees, who are enrolled in the program which is funded by a grant from the Wayne County Employment and Training Administration.

The program participants hope to demonstrate their training and skills to the public with their work on the grounds. The displays include: intensive garden plots which are designed to demonstrate how families with limited gardening space can achieve a maximum yield and rainbow as well as All-American selection floral displays.

Also, in collaboration with the Greater Detroit Chrysanthemum Society, the trainees are caring for an extensive mum display. The Detroit Rose Society helped plant over 600 roses of old and new varieties being raised by the trainees.

The most educational displays are the turfplots, sweetcorn field, and vegetable gardens planted and cultivated by the trainees. The turfplots feature 270 plots of grasses on three maintenance schedules. Visitors can compare varieties as well as different effects of the care provided.

The sweetcorn field features 29 varieties of sweetcorn for comparison. The dozens of vegetable gardens feature nearly every variety of vegetable grown, including 23 different varieties of tomatoes.

Now in its third year, the program has already trained 160 disadvantaged youth in 1982. These teenagers are from Inkster, Romulus, Wayne, Westland, Belleville, and Lincoln Park, as well as Sumpter and Van Buren Townships.

Most of the youth are considered high-risk and they represent high percentages of the handicapped, minorities, ex-offenders, and school drop-outs. Program Manager Gary Greenwell coordinates a staff of 150 who work with the youth to provide a variety of training, counseling, work experience, and job placement.

The training includes career and personal exploration, horticulture vocational skills, employability skills, and foundation or survival skills. Employability skills include reading want ads, telephone effectiveness, application filling, resume writing, and interview skills.

The Foundations skills training, depending on the needs of each group and individual trainees, includes such topics as acquiring transportation or housing, stress management, budgeting, computing wages and taxes, time management, legal rights and responsibilities, continuing education, personal care and nutrition, work attitudes, goal-setting, and problem-solving.

The trainees divide their time between the classroom and their work experience projects outdoors. These projects are the brain child of County Agricultural Agent and Program Director Donald D. Juchartz.

Pleased that thousands of people each year visit the Cooperative Extension Service to learn about their gardens, landscaping, farms, houseplants and horticulture in general, he wanted to develop a way to actually show people the answers to their questions.

Now when visitors ask experts their questions, drop off samples for analysis, or pick up literature, they can go out on the grounds and actually look at different kinds of plants and compare different ways to plant and display them.

The program has successfully combined training and work experience with a way to educate and provide enjoyment for the public. So far this year, 40 trainees have acquired jobs and many more are trained and ready for employment. The staff feels tremendous about the maturity they have seen most of the trainees achieve. The trainees feel proud of the accomplishments they can show their friends, families, and neighbors.

While here, visitors can also enjoy the duck ponds, the Extension Center landscaping, the literature and displays of the Family Living and Natural Resources Departments, and enjoy a one-to-one encounter with a variety of farmyard animals at the 4-H Pet-A-Farm.

The Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service is located at 5454 Venoy in the Extension and Education Center. This is near the intersection of Van Born and Venoy Roads, behind Annapolis Hospital. It is open Monday thru Friday, 8:30 to 4:30.

A small group of trainees will be there Saturdays so people who have weekend time can also enjoy the displays. Anybody interested in having a trainee help tour, or in learning more about the program should contact Gary Greenwell at 721-6550.

Greenwell adds, "Many people in the area are not aware of the tremendous resource they have here. I hope to see more drop by and take advantage of the many services and displays the Cooperative Extension Service has to offer. Those who do always re-

Food for thought

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Brian A. Walters is an Attorney at Law engaged in the general practice of law in Van Buren Township. He is a 1977 graduate of Oakland University and received his Juris Doctorate from Detroit College of Law in 1980. While attending law school he clerked for the Chief Judge of the 14th District Court and worked for the Consumer Protection Agency of Wayne County. If you have legal questions, please write Mr. Walters in care of Associated Newspapers, Inc., 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan. His column will appear weekly in the ANP editions).

Did you know it is illegal to place harmful objects or substances in food.

The Michigan statute reads as follows:

A person who places pins, needles, razor blades, glass, or other harmful objects in any food, or a person who places a harmful substance in any food, with intent to harm the consumer of the food, or who knowingly furnishes any food containing a harmful object or substance to another person, is guilty of a felony and shall be imprisoned for not more than 10 years, or fined not more than $10,000 or both.

Such actions are more common on or near October 31, Halloween.

At that time we are probably more cautious about accepting food from strangers.

If we do accept such food, it should be carefully examined before eating it. For example, apples should be cut in small pieces before eating.

It is best to be safe year round. Be careful. Watch what you eat and who you get it from, this world has a lot of sick people in it.

Social Security expert tells area seniors 'that Congress won't let system fail'

The Social Security system is still healthy and sound according to William Driver, Commissioner of Social Security in '80-'81.

Driver was in the area last week to speak to residents of Romulus, Wayne and Van Buren at a series of meetings sponsored by State Representative Candidate Roger Cadaret.

Says Cadaret, "I asked Mr. Drivers to come up from Washington to share some good news with our people and put their minds at ease." It seems to have worked as several of the listeners appeared relieved and were heard to comment, "Well, that's good to hear."

Driver advised the groups, mostly retirees, that beginning in 1990 the Social Security Retirement Fund will be accumulating a surplus of approximately $37,000 per minute and will continue doing so for 30 years. He added that this prediction was based on "conservative" estimates and the surplus could be much higher. He warned that "there would be a shortfall between now and 1990, but this could be easily covered by borrowing, which could be paid back after 1990." Driver assured the audiences, "Congress is very sympathetic to Social Security issues and will never let the system fail."

He added: "This has been by far the most successful program ever instituted by our government and it is strongly supported by young and old alike. Currently, 96% of our population comes under Social Security."

Cadaret, who worked on the Social Security Subcommittee for the U.S. House of Representatives spoke briefly about his experience with Congressmen concerning Social Security. "There is no more sensitive issue in Washington," said Cadaret.

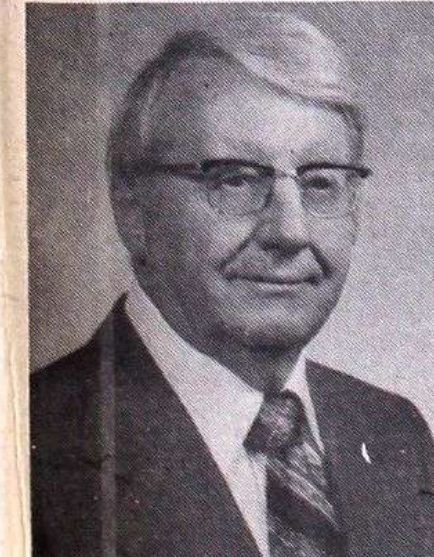

"When we received letters from constituents, they were the number one priority. That's why I urge all voters to write their elected officials. It really works."

An issue of major concern to Driver was the merging of Social Security with the overall U.S. budget.

He said: "When Social Security showed a surplus during the Vietnam years, it was politically desirable to merge it into the general budget so the surplus would offset part of the deficit caused by the war.

"Even today, Reagan is trying to cut Social Security expenditures to reduce the deficit caused by his defense spending. The budget should not be balanced on the backs of Social Security beneficiaries," Cadaret added that in his report to the Social Security Committee he recommended the establishment of Social Security as a separate commission similar to the Postal Service. He said "It should never be used as a political toy."

Carl Morris is re-elected county school board president

CARL MORRIS

A longtime member of the Board of Education of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, Carl W. Morris, has been elected president for the 1982-83 school year.

Morris, who has served on the county board for 25 years, is also the president of the Michigan Association of School Boards. He also served on the Romulus Board of Education for 35 years.

Other officers elected were: Geraldine W. Joyner, of Livonia, vice-president; Boyd W. Arthurs, of Trenton, secretary; Mary Blackmon, of Detroit, treasurer and Dr. Richard R. Muse, Belleville, trustee.

Intermediate District board members, who serve six-year terms, are elected by the 36 local school boards in Wayne County.

Views On Dental Health

By PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S.

A STIMULATING EXPERIENCE

When you brush your teeth, you clean only the outside surfaces. The toothbrush will not clean between the teeth very well. Gum stimulators are necessary to clean between the teeth to get where the toothbrush cannot and to keep your mouth clean.

The best gum stimulators are soft, wooden wedges that look like triangular toothpicks and are available in all drug stores. They are sold in matchbook types of containers - about fifty to a pack. If they are used with an in-and-out massaging movement, they do a fine job of cleaning the in-between spaces and of stimulating the gum margins.

They provide one of the finest forms of home care available, and I cannot recommend them highly enough. Many dollars worth of dental care per year could be saved in most families if each member conscientiously used these little sticks once a day. The rubber tips on the ends of some toothbrushes just don't compare to the little wooden wedges-sticks. They are simple but of great value.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of PHILIP MEIZELS, D.D.S., 9840 Haggerty Rd., Belleville. Phone 697-4400.

our opinions

Now is the time to study candidates

Tuesday, August 10 is primary election day.

While that day may seem far in the future — especially in what often seems a day-to-day existence — it needs some immediate attention.

In the final days and hours before the balloting, voters will be constantly reminded of their obligation to participate in this democratic process. They will be told that the choices are theirs and that to disregard one's voting right is inexcusable.

We agree. Historically the electorate has proven apathetic, whether it be a school board race or balloting for the presidency of the United States.

However, casting the vote isn't enough either. They key to electing responsible lawmakers rests with an informed electorate.

How does one educate himself or herself in the world of politics? How do you ascertain the truth from the wishful thinking? The fact from the promise? The qualified candidate from the pretender?

It isn't easy. But education, although time consuming, will pay dividends.

Elections are not intended to be popularity contests or struggles based on what campaign funds will buy. Such events and information sources as the local candidates' nights, brochures and question and answer publications (check your local League of Women Voters outlet), media coverage and the like should be checked and rechecked.

If you have a question about an issue or a candidate — seek an answer.

Next week The Associated Newspapers will publish a voters' guide aimed at providing a non-partisan look at the candidates. It deserves the attention of every registered voter who wants to enter the voting booth as informed as possible.

August 9 or 10 is not the time to begin doing your homework on the candidates and issues. Start today and take pride in being a qualified voter.

For it's qualified voters who elect qualified leaders.

Tax of A Tax Payer: Who should be blamed?

By Bernard F. Hillenbrand

A Tax Payer is proud owner of a white suburban split level. His kids bicycle to school via sidewalks lining quiet streets.

This morning Payer walks over crumbling concrete. The gutters overflow with garbage. At the nearest highway, he waits patiently. The homeowner notices a median strip burgeoning weeds. He wrinkles his nose in distaste, idly swatting a mosquito.

His bus is late. It is crowded. Payer remembers he must renew his car registration, mentally rearranging his day so he can leave work early.

All goes well until he joins the line at the assessor's window in the county courthouse. It is only slightly shorter than that issuing from the social service office. Welfare eligibility is twice as low and vehicle registration fees are two times higher than they were one year ago. People in both lines look tired and depressed.

On his way home Payer is bumped by a youngster who grabs his wallet. He's furious. A call to the police gets put on hold. He's livid. The operator finally takes his name and sends an officer who doesn't arrive until 10 p.m., explaining that an expensive new, computerized dispatching system allows police to answer calls in order of urgency.

Robberies come only after murder, rape and crimes of passion.

"Where do my taxes go?" Payer cries.

Our hero is typical of millions of disgruntled citizens in hundreds of counties who are losing basic public services because of dwindling resources available to local government.

Payer is more fortunate than some, he's still employed — and paying taxes. So are the local government officials he's elected, although they are the most visible target of discontent.

Everything about their relationship is under tremendous strain, beginning with what Payer expects government to do.

Boulder, Colo., Finance Director Virginia J. Aragon put it this way: "The average citizen wants service, but is not concerned with the county's problem of how to fund it." And County Executive W. David Smith of Fayette County (Somerville), Tenn., adds, "We get complaints of higher taxes no matter what the source or reason, and the public doesn't understand or care. I see local support for reduced federal spending, but when local taxes have to increase to maintain essential services, local government will be blamed."

Their comments were part of a recent financial survey of some 300 counties nationwide. Most officials report that local taxes are bound to increase as revenue wanes:

— Federal grants are falling from $88 billion in 1980 to $80 billion in 1983.

— Local government is getting less from states. Federal tax cuts have reduced revenue in 30 states that tie taxes to federal rates.

— Localities are paying record-breaking interest rates. New investment vehicles for individuals have made municipal bonds less popular. Worse, a Senate Finance Committee proposal would tax the interest earnings on municipal bonds held by high income individuals. The provision is part of a proposed minimum income tax requirement.

Counties are saving money by streamlining financial management and contracting out some services to the private sector. Nevertheless, local governments simply cannot replace lost dollars. Now many are paring services previously considered sacrosanct.

Bernalillo County (Albuquerque), N.M., has cut many department budgets, including administration. "Citizens don't like it," Commissioner Orlando Vigil said wryly, "But they accept the necessity of staying solvent."

Almost every county has trimmed social service and health care programs, although their cost is increasing: As federal monies dry up, the burden "shifts" and the local share becomes greater. When the U.S. government trims Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), for example, more people apply for "general assistance" grants funded by counties. "There is a misconception about which programs are supported by each level of government," says Gerald G. Fox, county manager of Mecklenburg County, (Charleston), N.C.

True, social service block grants are the first offered states by the Reagan administration. But some local officials doubt they will ever see the money. Barry Hinds of Rapides (Alexandria), La., says his state is "less responsive to social service needs."

"I'm afraid the state will retain a disproportionate share of the funds," an official from Miner County (Howard), S.D., said. Hamilton County (Chattanooga), Tenn., is among scores of counties that are doing less road repair. County Executive Dalton Roberts spells out the consequences: "Less paving, less mowing of ditches." El Paso County, Colo., citizens complain mightily about poor road maintenance. Some of their bridges are so bad they had to reduce load limits.

A Pinellas County (Clearwater), Fla., official points out that deferred maintenance means higher operating costs in the future, when

Even as I write this there are still two more proposed sites being worked on for housing seniors — one on 5 acres of the I-94 Service Drive frontage of our Township Park and a total complex in the City of Belleville as a joint project for seniors in Van Buren Township, City of Belleville, Sumpter Township, Huron Township and the City of Romulus by the Western Five Community Conference of which Supervisor Cullin has been the Chairperson since its beginning in October of 1979. Of course, subsidy funds which supply the lifeline of senior housing have decreased making it extremely difficult for developers to build the needed complexes.

The population of seniors is by far the fastest growing segment of our society today. We are fortunate to be able to rely on the experience of our Supervisor when a senior issue arises. Pat Cullin has always been steadfast in doing her best for the residents of Van Buren Township.

Cullin is commended

EDITOR

As an avid supporter of senior programs and a member of September Days, I would like to take this opportunity to commend Supervisor Pat Cullin for the many hours she has spent with county, state and federal officials working hard for the rights and needs of Senior Citizens in our area.

Supervisor Cullin has worked endlessly on many projects. She was instrumental in getting the first C.E.T.A. funded Senior Coordinator for Van Buren Township and once the C.E.T.A. funds became scarce, Community Development Block Grant funds were used to maintain the program. Pat has also worked continuously in her efforts to have a Senior Mid-rise built in Van Buren, first in conjunction with past Supervisor Elton Gollwitzer trying to get the State to fund a senior residential project on the property behind K-Marts, then she worked hard with Forest City - Dillon to get a state funded senior residential complex on Haggerty Road next to the new Wayne County Community College campus. (There were a few more sites such as the corner of Haggerty Road and Huron River Drive and, also, on West Huron River Drive near Pine

Managing Editor

You know that it's election time. The tension is in the air. It's like the great expectations just before curtain time. At the Bolshoi. Or the Met.

And, as you watch the characters play out their roles — their furor, almost religious dedication to what their doing, you wonder if the prize is worth it.

Broadhead obviously didn't think so. The 17th Congressional District representative had a lot to reveal about the inner sanctums of Washington. There is just no time and peace for the elected official. I have said it in the past, and I will reiterate it here — only masochists seek political office.

And the bubble bursts for most immediately after being sworn in.

Meeting-after-meeting. People to talk to, with and over. Try to make them understand. Don't try to make them understand. Avoid them. Compromise.

The world of politics is at best a world of images like ice taken from the refrigerator, instantly shattered.

To reach the goal of elected official, it appears, everything is permissible. Promise. And make it bigger than the opponent's. If he's going to cut taxes 5 percent; you had better cut them 10; if he's going to get a million dollar grant from Washington; you had better make it a billion.

It is a drama that borrows on a tragedy. But why do we seem to laugh at all these events, after all, most affect our lives. Isn't that why we have to pay more than half of our wages toward some kind of tax? Isn't that why our schools are existing on hand-outs? Isn't that why we talk of trillion dollar deficits instead of values.

Who can the passive observer turn to for advice. Are the 75 percent who refuse to go to the polls smarter than the 25 that do?

Look at the next page and read of those who seek answers to questions from elected officials. They represent only a small portion of those who are concerned. They feel like the bull charging into the sharpened sword of the political matador.

It's election time. May I urge those seeking office NOT to speak in the symbolism of the above column.

Tell us in plain English what you hope to accomplish in office.

Convince us. And we'll vote for you.

Dems urge 'no' vote on recall

EDITOR — This is an open letter to the voters in Van Buren Township. The Metro-Wayne Democratic Club encourages the citizens in Van Buren Township to vote "no" on the recall of the Van Buren officials. We feel supervisor Patricia Cullin and her administration have done a fine job.

We also feel that this recall is nothing but a political maneuver by some disenfranchised people who lost out in the last election.

Again, the officers and members of the Metro-Wayne Democratic Club urge you to support your township board and to vote "No" on August 10.

Small businesses need help now

EDITOR — This is an editorial response to State Rep. Edward Mahalak's article: "Mahalak Urges Tax Relief for Small Businesses."

It's a shame that our State Representative is bragging about passing legislation that gives small businesses a tax break in 1984!

Where have you been?

You have supposedly been "serving" us for 18 years — by the time the bill comes into effect it will have been 20 years we have waited for someone to "represent" us.

I am offended that you wait until election time to take credit for something that has not taken effect yet. You have been in Lansing for 18 years. As our representative, you share the responsibility for what is happening today — recession — we can't wait until 1984 for a fairyland solution.

What is to happen to the unfortunate small businesses that "are struggling to remain solvent during the current recession?" Can they wait until 1984 or are they going to join the State's generous welfare rolls? I feel that it is irresponsible of our representative to have waited this long to take action in behalf of small businesses and the people of his district.

Residents urge 'No' to trailers

EDITOR — We addressed the following letter to the Romulus Planning Commission and also would like the people of this city and area to understand the plight.

About 1973 the residents of Ecorse Road and the Wayne-Beverly area were fighting for an apartment complex on Ecorse road at a cost of about $8 million. It took two years to get the project approved by the City of Romulus. Because of the length of time it took for the approval it was too late to apply for the funds from the Nixon-Administration and the project "fell in the ocean" so to say.

Now it appears that City Officials are willing to approve a trailer park of 1000 trailers on Ecorse Road which is the location of some of the nicest homes in Romulus in a price-range of $50,000 and up.

Another project was proposed on Henry Ruff - Ecorse Road. This project was not approved by the residents on Ecorse Road because it was a church project and we did not feel that we should support a tax free project and pay some of the highest taxes as homeowners in the City of Romulus. This was also the sentiment of the former City Council.

Now, we understand, the City is planning to rezone an RA 1 property for a trailer park with approximately 100 trailers.

Are you willing to supply all the city services and school to the trailer park at the expense of all the residents and taxpayers of the city of Romulus?

Supply police-protection and garbage-pickup? The city will collect practically nothing from the trailerpark!

We all would like to know — Who encouraged the contractor from Mount Clemens to come to Romulus and we wonder, why are some members from the council so interested in this park? Who benefits from this? Does the council or the elected officials represent the Citizens and Taxpayers of Romulus or are more interested in a contractor from Mount Clemens or elsewhere?

Our summer taxes just went up from $300 to $500 and at the same time there is the danger that our property value will be depreciated if the rezoning is voted on.

The property-taxes in Romulus are outrageous, yet the City is not going anywhere; we do not have recreation centers like other cities. We do not have shopping centers like other cities. Even the City of Inkster with very little industry has some of the nicest recreation centers and shopping centers. What is wrong with Romulus?

Would any member of the Planning Commission like a Trailerpark next door to them? Would the mayor like to have a trailer park next door to him? Would any member of the city council like to have a trailer park next door to them?

We urge the members of the Planning Commission and the City legislators, the elected officials, to consider our opposition to the trailer park.

Van Buren clerk highly qualified

EDITOR — We are writing this letter on behalf of Doreen Craven for whom we have a very high regard. She has consistently worked very hard in the area of public safety in our community and in particular with the Van Buren Fire Department.

Doreen's interest in the fire department is such that she recently completed the 66 hour Basic Firefighters Training with the men of the department. Also, with the Township Board's approval two years ago, Doreen was able to increase the Fire Dept. budget an additional $2,000 for tuition training, such as EMT, thus providing Van Buren Twp. with better trained personnel in the Fire Department.

Through Doreen's cooperative efforts with the Township Board and Community Developer, the Fire Dept. has been the recipient of several thousand dollars in Block Grant monies over the past 6 years. This year was no exception, Doreen Craven alerted us when the Block Grant Hearings were to be held so that we could address the board for our basic needs.

Doreen has been aggressive in her efforts toward a better trained and equipped fire department having donated her own time and dollars for such items as flood lights, Jeep batteries, a paint job, etc.

This lady is OK in our book.

We sincerely hope that Doreen Craven remains in office for a long time to come. She understands our problems and our needs through her sincere participation in fire business. She portrays our needs to the township board and this has proven to be successful on our behalf.

Another vote for Doreen Craven

EDITOR — I have been employed by Van Buren Township since 1976 and have been the Deputy Clerk, appointed by Clerk Doreen Craven, since 1979. Viewing things from an inside, front row seat, I find the addition of Clerk Craven's name to a recall "Hit list" as totally without justification and I feel that it can in no way be based on any wrong doing on her part. She is qualified, competent, dedicated and a thoroughly trained administrator that has continued to do the job she was elected to do.

I am asking all the voters to think long and hard before they vote — Have you heard, from anyone, specific charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance against Doreen Craven????

This "WHOLESALE" recall of a "LIST" of people by any special interest group, without specific charges leveled against each individual person, smacks of a "Massacre without Cause". Based on having been told by several different groups of people in this community that they think highly of me and feel that I have done a reputable job as Deputy Clerk, I am asking the citizens of this community to assist me in the continuance of an efficient and smooth running Township Clerks Office by voting to "RETAIN CLERK DOREEN CRAVEN."

"VOTE NO ON THE RECALL!" DELPHINE DUDICK
Deputy Clerk,
Van Buren Township

Out-of-towner comments

EDITOR — I have been visiting my daughter for the past month here in Michigan and wish to express my feelings as an outsider, with regard to two separate situations within the Van Buren community, before departing.

The first concerns itself with the recall of several board members of the township and the other with a lack of concern for education that appears evident in this community.

Most of my input on the recall situation seems to center around one man — the treasurer, Tom Welty. Whether the others who were petitioned for a recall vote choose to keep a low profile, couldn't afford a campaign, or simply lacked the out and out audacity displayed by this individual is not clear.

The recall appears to be over the hiring of a police chief who the township later found to have a controversial background.

First, I read a personal endorsement of Mr. Welty by an Ed Morelli. Then it was revealed that Mr. Morelli, himself has been charged — by the state liquor board for not having a permit to run nude contests, and for selling alcohol to minors — and by the state police for using 3 different aliases in obtaining drivers licenses and voters registrations.

It was made clear in an article in this paper, that Mr. Welty is also the Police Commissioner and that Mr. Morelli was on the roll of the volunteer police department.

Then I began reading of Tom Welty Day at the Park, and read an editorial that Mr. Welty decided that he would include fireworks this year.

The event was also termed Family Day — but the large print letters on most signs clearly read TOM WELTY. I do not claim to know this man's capabilities as treasurer. I also want to stress that no one I have come into contact with has had anything to do with the recall effort. I just find these events interesting — and things I personally would take into consideration if I had the power of a vote in this community.

The other matter I wish to take issue with is your educational setting. I also read an editorial in this paper from a gentleman from Westland who equated his city to Rome and indicated that the reason Jimmie Carter lost the last election was because he was backed by the educational community.

Most of his complaints seemed to stem from his feelings that the teachers in his area were awarded too much money.

This man may or may not have a legitimate point — however — I also read several letters from children and parents who seemed to feel that the educational offerings of this district were something to be praised.

In this district of Van Buren Public Schools that my granddaughters attend, I have a great concern. The teachers in this district are going into their fourth year without a contract — and although I have heard many good things about these teachers — my administrative background of over 20 years sends me signals that spell deep trouble for this educational setting in two ways.

First — and foremost — having read and participated in gathering information for over 50 studies on productivity and product outcome with relationship to employee morale — placing your teachers at the bottom of the pay comparisons for the entire county, and not bargaining a contract for 4 years is sure to have a GREAT effect on the education of the children in your schools.

Secondly, your state requires a balanced budget each year by the school districts; therefore, your educational leadership (and I see little of it) has been compelled to spend the money somehow or somewhere. Someday — probably long after your superintendant and most board members who created the situation are long gone — you are going to have to find monies to settle the contract for the years that you've already spent the money. I'm sure the teachers will be made to look like the heavies — but the fact is — your administrators have failed to show they could bargain in a professional manner and, therefore their budgets over the past years will prove inaccurate.

I'm sorry I don't know who the superintendent of this district is (I asked my granddaughters and their friends — but none of them knew) but I would have to say that his/her major objective cannot be to insure quality education.

reflections

Projecting an image into space

Flying isn't one of my most favorite pastimes, and yet I have never flown but what I have met someone who is fascinating and that person remains in my memory forever, even though I may never see nor hear from them again.

Such is the case with Lois. She was my seat mate, a truly beautiful young woman who I discovered was married with two children, a boy of seven and a baby girl of three months.

We passed the time away talking about her babies, with me throwing in a few memories of my own when they were babies, and since it was a long trip to Idaho, we got onto other subjects.

And the subject we finally came to was psychic phenomena, which happens to be one of my most fascinating subjects, as most of you probably already know.

Lois told me a story which had recently happened to her, and I think that you might be as interested in it as I was.

It seems that as the days became warmer this summer it became increasingly difficult for her to get her little boy in from play after dinner.

She kept telling him that he had to come home the minute that darkness fell, but each evening she would have to go out looking for him. She said he didn't mean to be naughty, it was just that he got so preoccupied with his play.

"One night last week," she said, "the baby was terribly fussy and I happened to notice that Danny wasn't in and that it was getting really dark outside.

"My husband wasn't home, and I felt I couldn't run out leaving the baby in the house alone, and crying.

"Oh darn," I said to myself. "Danny, will you please get home, NOW!" I really wasn't trying to contact him or anything like that, it was that I was so exasperated with him, I found myself talking out loud.

"The baby kept screaming at the top of her lungs and I had just about decided that I would have to get her out of bed and take her with me to look for Danny, when the door flew open and I heard him yelling, 'Mom, mom!'

"I ran to the head of the stairs, and called down, letting him know where I was.

"Why didn't you wait for me!" He yelled as he bounced up the stairs.

"What do you mean why didn't I wait for you?"

"You didn't wait," he cried.

"When I was at Keith's I heard you call me and when I turned around you were standing right there, by that old tree. Why did you leave me and I had to come home all by myself? And it's dark outside."

His lower lip was trembling,

and I didn't much think about what had happened while I comforted the little kid, but afterwards I got to wondering. Somehow I must have projected myself, but I certainly wasn't aware of it. I wish I could do it that way all the time then I wouldn't have to do so much chasing around."

In the files of psychic researchers there are many cases almost identical to this. Apparently the high emotion of the moment and the exasperation projected to her boy.

Whether some part of her personality was actually there is debatable. But research seems to indicate that we do leave our bodies at times of stress, and that we can be seen by others while we are still at home going about our duties.

MONA GRIGG

The talk was light and full of "catching up." The woman had brought pictures of her grandchildren and her friend dug out the old albums.

In time, as they both knew it would, the talk turned to reminiscing. They laughed and giggled like two schoolgirls at the same stories they told every time they got together.

It was quiet for a while and they both smiled at their private memories.

The woman turned to her friend and said, "Where did those two girls go? Why can't they come back?"

She was startled at the anguish in her voice. She had meant for it to be light; almost a joke. She was surprised at how real the yearning really was.

The younger women never looked up from the photograph albums they were sharing. They pretended not to hear.

It was how she would have handled it when she was younger, too, she thought.

Going home again

"You can't go home again," Thomas Wolfe wrote, and everyone old enough to read the words knew instantly what he meant.

The woman knew, too — but she went anyway.

She had made the trip many times before; when the kids were small, when they were half-grown, when they were married and had families of their own.

They had all been trips 'back home'; each time to a house, a street, a town strangely at odds with the house, the street, the town she had grown up in.

But, in spite of the changes, those trips had been fun. It was almost as though she had to come home all those times to see how much she had grown away. She saw the growing away as important — necessary. She reveled in the freedom of coming and enjoying and leaving again. She loved the thought that it would always be there. Changed, maybe — different in so many ways — but the essence would always be the same.

It had never occurred to her, all those other times — when she was young — that the option to come and enjoy and leave might run out for her. That there might come a time when she herself could no longer make the trip.

This trip then was possibly her last. A pilgrimage of sorts. She had never thought of it that way before and it angered her that she was thinking it now.

The thought that this trip might be the last added a new and not entirely agreeable dimension to it. It meant a constant, almost frantic, savoring of every glimpse of the past. Familiar scents surrounded her as she stopped to look at the old house, the creek, the railroad depot...

It was funny, she thought; no matter how things change, the smells of a place stay the same.

There was so much to pack into this possible last trip, it was becoming a chore. The records of her ancestors lay buried somewhere in the archives at the county court house. Digging them out was the spoken reason for the trip.

She watched the younger women bound up the courthouse steps in their haste to get to the records. They stood at the top and, seeing her hesitation, ran down again to help her.

"I would have made it in my own sweet time," she said, smiling a forced smile. God, how she wanted to run up those steps. In her young girl mind she could have taken two at a time. She could do anything.

She inched her way up the seven steps and went inside. As she rested on a handy bench, the younger women went to seek out the records room. After a bit, they came back to tell her it was up still another flight of stairs.

She sent them on ahead, then worked her way up, one step by one step, praying that no one would come along and see her and ask her if she needed help.

It was all there in the records room: The births, the marriages, the deaths of her kin — all recorded in the quavery, filligreed handwriting of the day. It was a bittersweet find. Happy and sad.

Like going to the cemetery. It was a relief to find the graves and a loving duty to pay homage with sprays of plastic flowers, but the busy work of finding the headstones and adjusting the flowers kept the memories from flooding in. When the work was finished, she was ready to leave.

The next stop was at the home of a girlhood friend. The woman was a recent widow who had given up her beloved farm in favor of a tiny house in town; safer for a woman alone and prone to falling, and closer to her family.

Displaced homemaker program is offered

Are you a woman who has spent years as a full-time homemaker?
Are you separated, divorced or widowed, single head of household?

Looking for a way to support yourself and your family?

Wayne County Community College has a Displaced Homemakers Program for residents of Western Wayne County and Downriver, at their campus on 9555 Haggerty Road in Belleville.

The goal of this program is to provide a support system for participants to prepare themselves for further educational training and/or employment.

To be eligible for the program one must be a resident of Wayne County and meet one of the following criteria:

- A former homemaker re-entering the job market due to marriage dissolution or disability of spouse,
- A single head of household lacking adequate job skills,
- A current homemaker seeking full-time work,
- A person who is seeking non-traditional work for her/his gender.

The program will include classes in Career Planning, Budgeting, Assertiveness Training and Coping with Loss or Separation. College credit will be awarded to those who successfully complete the classes.

Counseling in the areas of financial aid, job entry and further educational training will also be provided.

The program for the fall semester begins September 7 and runs until December 20. Participants will attend classes two half days a week.

This program is being offered at no cost to eligible people. Applications are currently being processed for the fall term. Because enrollment is limited, priority will be given to applicants who apply early.

For more information on eligibility, registration and program application, contact Sharon Scott at 699-0216.

Mr. Mike's rates as 'everybody's place'

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

What kind of crowd does Mr. Mike's attract?

At 5:30 p.m. last Thursday diners at this Westland gathering spot included a softball team dressed in full uniform, businessmen in suits, families with young children and several couples, all in informal attire.

Such an array of customers can be found nearly every day or night here, because as owner Jim Capeneka notes, "this is everybody's place." The menu reflects such an attitude, featuring a wide variety of sandwiches, dinners, beverages, and assorted Greek and Mexican dishes.

Of course, there's also the "Famous Coney Island" with homemade chili ($1.15) that helped launch Mr. Mike's some 35 years ago.

"We first opened as a Coney Island restaurant," recalled Capeneka, whose father, Michael, started in the Coney Island business in 1921 before moving to Westland. "Through the years we've expanded and added a liquor license."

What once was a small, 19-stool diner has become a popular combination family restaurant/pub at 35323 Ford Road, just east of Wayne Road. Capeneka and Jim Tsilis serve as owners and operators of the establishment.

For those with a taste for Greek specialties, Mr. Mike's offers souvlaki, spinach cheese pie, gyros sandwich and pastitsio (baked macaroni), each for $3.50. A small Greek salad may be added for an extra charge.

The "Mexican Fiesta" highlights the nachos supreme ($3.95 and $4.95), tortilla chips covered with chili, cheddar cheese, shredded lettuce, diced tomatoes, peppers and sour cream. A Mexican chili deluxe ($2.75) includes chili, cheddar cheese and jalapenos peppers, served with tortilla chips.

On the sandwich menu are the all-steak burger ($1.45), corned beef ($3.00), roast beef ($2.95), reuben ($3.10), chiliburger ($1.65), fish ($1.85), tuna melt ($2.75) and many others. For an added cost one can have the deluxe sandwich with french fries, cole slaw and pickle.

Dinner entrees include a 10 ounce

New York sirloin steak ($8.95), barbecued ribs ($5.75), veal cutlet ($3.95), pork chops ($5.45), veal parmesan ($4.75), fried chicken ($4.75), shrimp ($6.95), stuffed flounder ($5.95) and perch ($3.95). A choice of potatoes or rice, salad or cole slaw and a roll accompany the dinners.

Each day a special bargain is publicized on a blackboard at the entrance to the dining area.

"What we offer is unique,"

Capeneka declared. "Everything is moderately priced and our service can't be beat — most of our help has been with us two years or longer."

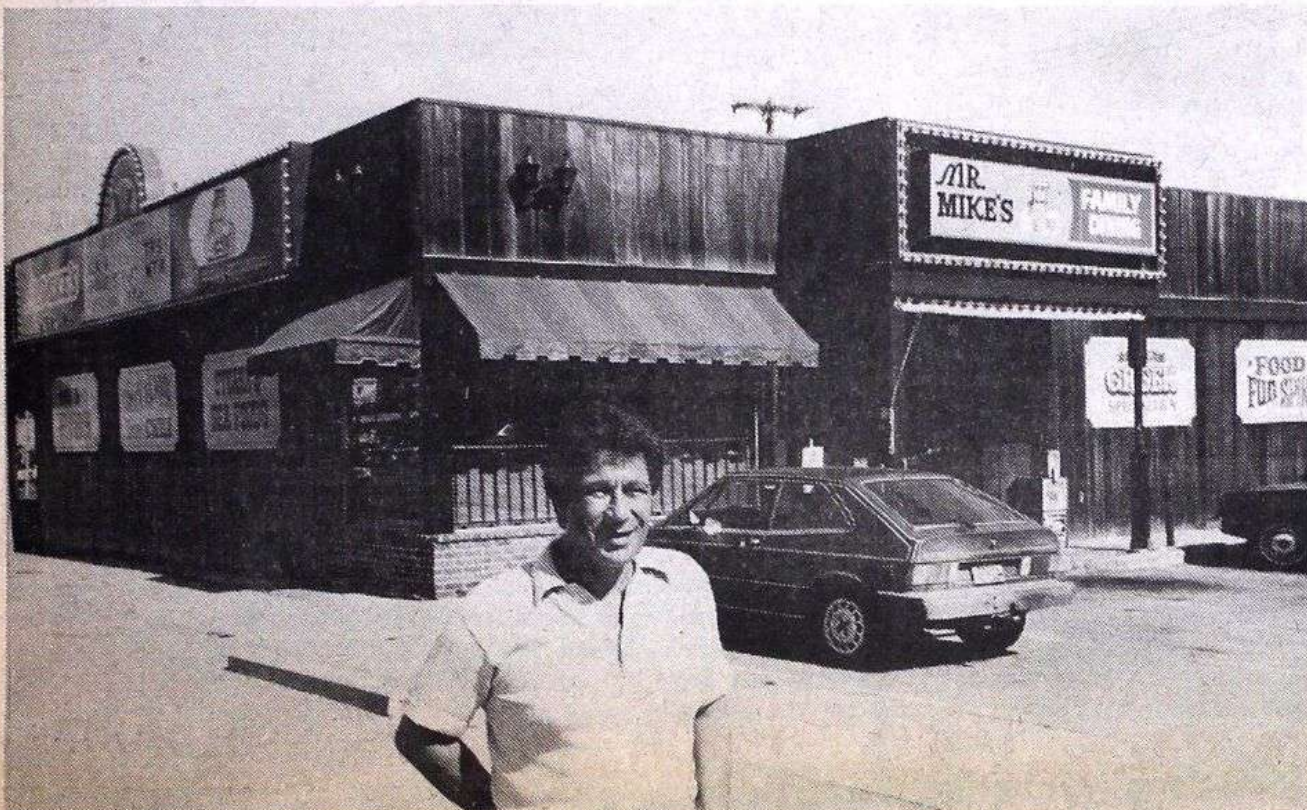

"Word gets around. One of our entertainers heard people in Dearborn talking about how good the nachos were at Mr. Mike's."

"Our chili is the best in town," he added. "It's from a family recipe my dad developed."

Live entertainment is provided every night beginning at 9 p.m. with singers Kenny Massey and Chris Elder performing Wednesday through Saturday and singer Gordie Stewart featured Sunday through Tuesday. Monday is "Open Mike Night" as amateur local talent gets its time in the spotlight.

Mr. Mike's opens for breakfast at 9 a.m. weekdays and 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday and remains in operation until 2 a.m. seven days a week. For complete carry out service, call 722-8882.

Cheap Trick breaks slump

It was rock 'n' roll's first-at-bat at the Meadow Brook Festival, and while Cheap Trick didn't come away batting a thousand, they certainly proved that they're out of their two-year slump and contenders once more.

The least said about the opening act, Saxon, the too-loud overbearing group of heavy metal wimps, the better, but I was rather surprised to find out that it's (almost) possible to make Ozzy Osbourne sound good by comparison.

But the return of Cheap Trick made up for all that came before. From the opening chord of "Hello There" to the last thump by drummer extraordinaire Bun E. Carlos at the end of the third encore, Cheap Trick had the near capacity crowd on their collective feet with the band's own brand of visual rock 'n' roll. Only a faulty sound system, which made most of Rick Nielson's guitar solos indecipherable, took anything away from the performance.

As expected, most of the material performed was from "One On One," the new album. And as hoped, the remainder was made up of songs from the first three albums, with only 3 or 4 songs coming from "Dream Police" and the banal "All Shook Up."

New bassist Jon Brant fit in extremely well, roaming the stage at will and playing in a more basic style that the band is used to, which is one of the changes I feel needed to be made. If he can add a few writing ideas to the pens of Nielson and Robin Zander, so much the better.

Zander was in fine voice, and Nielson was in rare form, but that's typical of Cheap Trick, right? When the band used to play the Second Chance in Ann Arbor, Robin tended to stay in the background when he wasn't singing; Nielson was the frontman.

When the band had graduated to headlining Royal Oak Music Theatre, Zander seemed extremely uncomfortable as on-stage leader, and kept his between-song banter to a minimum. At Joe Louis Arena two years ago, he seemed more at ease, but it's only now that I can say I think he's developed into a first-rate front man who enjoys the audience interplay. And his voice is better for it, too.

Of course, it was "I Want You To Want Me" that brought the crowd to a fever pitch, that being their biggest hit. Other highlights were "Big Eyes," "Surrender" ("Mommy's all right, Daddy's all right, they just seem a little weird"), and "She's Tight," the latter a rocker off of the new album that's getting a lot of radio airplay, just as the video of the song is on cable's MTV.

Award-winning photographer is honored by Detroit group

ALLEN BROOKS, owner of the ALLEN BROOKS STUDIO in Westland, has been honored by the Detroit Professional Photographers Association for his service as president of the organization.

Also a member of the Professional Photographers of Michigan, Brooks has won more than 50 awards for photography and twice was judged one of the top 10 photographers in Michigan.

Brooks was presented the Past Presidents gavel and a plaque at an awards banquet held by the Detroit photographers' organization, a 250-member group.

DR. DAWN ALLEYNE LANCASTER of Westland has been selected for membership in the American Chiropractic Association, it was announced by Dr. Lee Selby, president of the association.

The local doctor is a graduate of the National College of Chiropractic, located in Lombard, Ill., and is a member of the Michigan State Chiropractic Association.

JOSEPH AUMILLER has been appointed a sales representative for WYETH LABORATORIES, a division of American Home Products Corp.

The Inkster resident is a graduate of Ferris State and holds degrees with biology and marketing majors.

Wyeth Laboratories specializes in a broad line of products, including anti-biotics, oral contraceptives, infant formulas and prescription drugs. Aumiller's territory is based in Detroit.

PETER L. BLAKE and DONALD A. VINCENT, staff executives for the SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING ENGINEERS, have been designated Certified Association Executives for their expertise in association management.

The two executives, who both reside in Westland, were granted certification following a rigorous examination and evaluation of their experience in the association management field.

Blake, the executive director of the Society's Robotics International, directs the 6,000 members and 28 chapters of the organization, Robotics International ranks as the largest American scientific and educational association exploring the expanding use of industrial robots.

A graduate of the Detroit Institute of Technology, Blake joined the Society's staff in 1967 and previously served as manager of the Technical Activities Department and manager of certification.

Vincent was named executive director of the Society's Computer and Automated Systems Association in 1979, an organization with 5,000 members and 15 chapters in the U.S., Canada and Australia.

Since joining the Society in 1969 Vincent has served as assistant manager of the Chapter and Member Relations Department and manager of Technical Development. He is a marketing graduate of Ferris State College.

OTTO G. HINZMANN JR. of Canton has joined the Trust Investment Department of DETROIT BANK & TRUST as vice president and director of equity investment strategy.

Hinzmann previously served as vice president and senior investment officer for the Trust Investment Department of another major Detroit bank. He received a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Wayne State University in 1969 and is a member of the Financial Analysts Society of Detroit and the Detroit Athletic Club.

ANTONY RESPESS of Inkster has reached the Silver level of recognition in Chrysler Corp.'s Sales Professionals Club.

A new vehicle salesman for NORTHWESTERN DODGE, Inc. in Ferndale, Respass recently received an award for his sales performance, an achievement based on points earned for sales of new cars and trucks.

The top 45 Chrysler, Plymouth and Dodge retail sales personnel will win a three-day trip to the national sales conference this year.

MARIAM E. WORSHAM has been appointed marketing coordinator in the business development department at HOAD ENGINEERS, Inc.

A Westland resident, Worsham will develop the firm's marketing program and coordinate its advertising and public relations. She is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan where she received a bachelor of business administration degree in marketing.

Her honors include a listing in Who's Who in America College Students, an academic research fellowship and a honor roll achievement.

Hoad Engineers, Inc. provides architectural, engineering and consulting services to more than 300 national and international clients.

ROBERT H. GREENFIELD of Westland will join the EMHART CORP.'S Hardware Group next month at the completion of a special eight-week program at the Beijing Institute of Foreign Trade in Beijing, China.

The program is part of a reciprocal exchange program for outstanding students between the American Graduate School of International Management and the Chinese institute.

Greenfield recently received his master's degree in international management from the American Graduate School in Glendale, Ariz., where he served as student body president. He also is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of science degree in sociology and political science.

GEORGE T. MacKAY, director of marketing of GTE Products Corp.'s UNISTRUT Division, has been named the first president of the newly formed Metal Framing Manufacturers Association.

The Chicago-based association will seek to create industry standards and publish statistical information concerning the manufacture and application of continuous slot channel systems.

MacKAY has worked in sales and marketing positions for the Unistrut Division, which has facilities in Wayne, since joining the company in 1948. Active in local activities, he is the vice president of the Plymouth Homeowners Association and holds membership in several professional organizations.

Know of someone on the move in the business world? Items of business achievements, promotions and appointments will be spotlighted periodically in The Associated Newspapers' "In the limelight." Information should be submitted in writing to Associated Newspapers, Business Page, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, MI 48184.

Best in Michigan

Ruetz Heating and Air Conditioning, a heating and cooling company based in Allen Park, was recently recognized by its distributor, Carrier Distributing Co., for outstanding sales performance. Last year the Ruetz firm, a family-owned company, sold more Carrier heat pumps than any other Michigan dealer. On hand for the award presentation are Ed Edson (left), director of Residential Market Planning for Detroit Edison; John Ruetz, sales manager for Ruetz Heating and Air Conditioning; Dick Ruetz Sr., chairman of the board for Ruetz, and Bob Harrod, general manager of Carrier Michigan Co.

money management

Protect against losses-- check insurance coverage

Replacing or repairing your home and its contents after fire, vandalism or theft could prove an expensive undertaking.

Therefore, no family money management program is complete unless it includes a sensible plan to protect against such losses. Most people know insurance can protect against emergencies, but do you know how much your home and possessions are worth — and how much it would cost to replace them?

Inflation may well have driven up prices on your silverware, electronic appliances and art objects, which are the items thieves covet most, so that you are woefully underinsured. Before you take any other steps, check your insurance to be sure the coverage is adequate.

Information on policies and their costs are available from insurance firms but the coverage and replacement of lost items has tax implications that should be considered as part of your money management plans.

Insurance people tell you there are two ways to cut insurance costs. First, shop around. Companies that sell directly to consumers usually offer lower premiums. But on the other hand, agents who handle two or more companies might be able to recommend a package better suited to your needs. Whomever you buy from should be familiar with replacement costs.

The second way involves accepting larger risks yourself by agreeing to higher deductibles. While a $100 or $250 deductible is standard, higher deductibles will lower your premiums.

If you are in a high tax bracket, you could also benefit from higher deductibles. Unreimbursed losses are tax deductions while insurance premiums are not. So, if you are in the 50 percent bracket and pay $1,000 insurance premium, with a $100 deductible, your entire premium is paid in before-tax dollars as an out-of-pocket, non-deductible expense.

To decide how much insurance you need, figure the total replacement value of your home, not the current market value which is likely to be less. Insurance experts urge you to insure for the full replacement value, but policies are available to cover a percentage of the replacement value.

For example, if your home costs $80,000 to replace, a 100 percent coverage would reimburse you for the full $80,000. If your home were insured for only $48,000 or 60 percent of its replacement value, you would receive $32,000 less than you need to rebuild your home after a total loss.

Full coverage has another feature you should think about. As long as you insure at least 80 percent of the total replacement value, chances are that your policy will cover partial losses in full. So, in a situation where the partial loss totals $15,000, 80 percent insurance will provide reimbursement of $15,000 and not $12,000.

Personal property inside your home is covered as a percentage of your insurance, however, the actual cash value is usually the guiding factor, not the replacement cost. Actual cash value is calculated on the original cost minus depreciation, which lessens your coverage.

Try to keep pace with inflation once you have determined how much insurance you need. Inflation guard endorsements increase the amount of your coverage each quarter. Of course, any additional protection will increase your premium, but insufficient insurance can be costlier in the end.

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Job well done

Joe Forgione (right) of Westland is congratulated by Jim Doyle, president of the Bloomfield Hills office of D-Arcy - MacManus & Masius upon his retirement from the firm. Use those garden peppers — try 'em Mexicali style

Is there more to Mexican food than tacos, enchiladas and refried beans? You bet there is! Mexican dishes are a good way to introduce a little spice and add variety to your everyday meals. They can be hearty enough to make a complete family meal just by adding a salad and dessert.

A south-of-the-border style dish, like Stuffed Peppers Mexicali, looks and tastes like an authentic fiesta, but preparation is fast and simple.

Acapulco Rice is another way to put Mexican-style excitement into your menus.

STUFFED PEPPERS MEXICALI

2 medium green peppers
Boiling salted water
1 can (8 oz.) kidney beans
¼ pound ground beef
½ teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon oil
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup Minute rice
6 tablespoons grated cheddar cheese
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
½ teaspoon chili powder

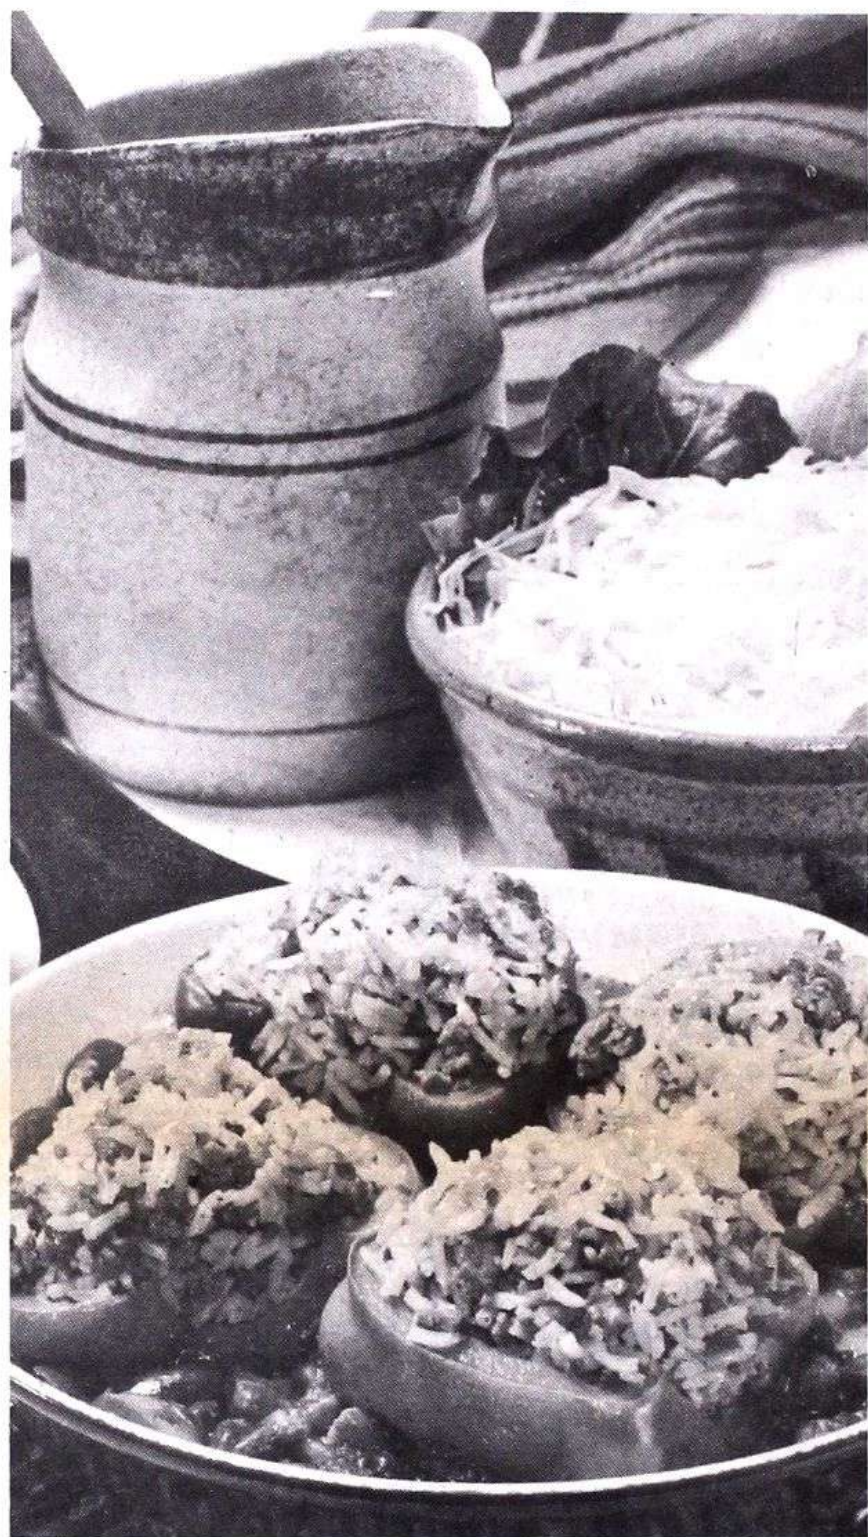

Cut peppers in half lengthwise and remove stems and seeds. Cook in boiling salted water for 10 minutes, or until just tender. Drain and set aside.

Drain beans, reserving liquid. Add water to liquid to make ¾ cup. Brown beef lightly with ½ teaspoon chili powder in oil in small skillet; add salt and the measured liquid. Bring to a boil; stir in rice, cover and simmer 5 minutes. Stir in ¼ cup of the cheese and spoon meat mixture into peppers. Pour tomatoes, the kidney beans and ½ teaspoon chili powder into the skillet. Place stuffed peppers in the skillet; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Makes 2 servings.

ACAPULCO RICE

1 can (16 oz.) tomato sauce
½ cup water
2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
1-½ cups Minute rice
½ cup crushed tortilla chips
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
Combine tomato sauce, water and chili powder in saucepan. Bring to a full boil. Stir in rice. Cover; remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes. Sprinkle with chips and cheese. Serve with shredded lettuce and sour cream, if desired. Makes 3 cups or 4 servings.

New on the scene

Carolyn Elizabeth Frisch

From Tennessee comes word of the arrival of a baby girl, Carolyn Elizabeth, who was added to the family of Carey and Elizabeth Frisch on July 6.

The infant, who weighed 7 lbs.-15 ozs., made her debut at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis. Besides being the little sister of Jonathon Frisch, who's 2½ years old, Carolyn is the granddaughter of Peter and Agnes Frisch of Belleville.

Kristen Alexis Snyman

They're "thinking pink" these mid-summer days out at the home of Pastor and Mrs. A. Royce Snyman on 1004 Beech St., Plymouth, and the reason is the arrival of their first child, a daughter.

Titled "Kristen Alexis" (the second name a derivation of her father and grandfather's name, "Alexander") the newcomer bowed in at 3:30 a.m. July 20 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The 7 pound-14½ ounce, who measured 20 inches, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Denski of Plymouth and Elder and Mrs. Alexander Snyman of Monterey Park, Calif.

Kristin also has a great-grandfather Snyman who resides in South Africa and three more great-grandparents who are Michigan residents: the William Plansdorf of Dearborn and Mrs. Stella Denski of Plymouth, formerly of Belleville.

The new father is pastor of the Belleville Seventh Day Adventist Church.

potpourri

By Lee Smith
Suburban Living Editor

Oh dear — it's one of those weeks; another of those times when nothing comes to mind for poor ol' "potpourri." So, what does a weekly columnist write about when there's nothing to write about?

Does she describe the miles upon miles of delicate wild chicory she drives through each time she heads north-east, the fragile blue-lavender blooms serving as honor guards along her route? Might she mention that, accompanied by masses of Queen Anne's lace, they've taken over where the stands of tall tiger lilies left off just a short time ago?

She might tell about the grinning little fella who was out unusually early one morning, sitting expectantly behind his card table laden with the season's first crop of sweet corn for sale to passersby.

She might include the fact that still another ice cream parlour has sprung up all too conveniently along her charted way to work meaning there are now THREE high-calorie enticements, all on US-12.

She shouldn't have to add how much willpower it takes to acquire tunnel vision and pass them by.

She could call attention to the bulging plastic bags she's been spotting lately along the highways and byways — encouraging signs that America is cleaning up its act. And also "the action" she's observed as groups bag the litter which so many human garbage pails are leaving behind them.

She could say how sad she felt hearing of Mr. Heininger's death and mention that her home bears a little memento of that very thoughtful gentleman. Although she never really knew Mr. H. (despite the fact she lived next to his Chevie "garage" on Main Street when she was a pre-schooler) she did have the pleasure of meeting him after she'd written up the Heininger's golden anniversary story.

She could tell about his stopping by the office the day after the item was run, wanting to know "who was responsible" for that story. Yours truly might want to admit she feared she'd really goofed somehow or other but acknowledged that she was "the one." It seems the former Belleville mayor was terribly pleased with the story saying it sure made him sound good.

She has to include his statement about "just having to buy that little gal a dinner" and plunking down a ten dollar bill with instructions she was to go out to eat "on him." No matter how she tried to explain that it was her job, he'd say he didn't care — anyone who could take the little bits of information he'd brought in and turn it into such a complimentary story deserved a treat.

Well, the gal who puts her by-line on this column might want to add that she later took her "duck dinner" into show Mr. H. what he'd paid for — a little pewter duck which has graced a lamp table ever since she spent that "meal money." And what a nice remembrance it is of a very nice gentleman!

She might want to end on that note and say she's sure there are a lot of other people out there who knew Clarence Heininger a lot more intimately and who could probably recall many pleasant incidents involving him. Hers was just a very brief encounter, one she'll long remember.

HELP AROUND THE HOUSE

• Before wearing a new garment, touch the center of every button with clear nail polish. This will seal threads and the buttons will stay on much longer.

• For a sweeter smelling closet, hang an old nylon stocking filled with cedar chips. This also serves as a moth repellent.

• Out of shoe polish? Rub your leather shoes with the inside of a fresh banana peel and wipe with a woolen cloth.

• Does your dog hate baths? Rub baking soda into his coat thoroughly, then brush off. It deodorizes as well as cleans.

LEO BOWS IN LIKE A LION

Since dates play such an important part in this segment of "potpourri", it's with sad awareness that I'm already writing about the last week in July (oh, Summer, you move too fast!) But — getting back to the Zodiacistics, those of you delivered from July 25 to 31st have lots of famous people with whom to share your Leo tendencies.

For a starter, that marvelous character actor, Jack Gilford, put three-quarters of a century behind him Sunday, the 25th, while Rolling Stoner Mick Jagger was busy on the come-back trail and hitting 39 years of age on the 26th, the same day Jason Robards turned 60.

Chickasaw County, Mississippi had a baby girl added to its population some 38 years ago. Bobbie Gentry's the name and she, Keenan Wynn and director Norman Lear all have July 27 birthdays, the latter two reaching 66 and 60, respectively.

That's the day, too, that Belle Emerson welcomed a son who was destined to become Mayor of Belleville. You might want to say a belated "happy birthday" to Justy when you see him.

Sally (Gloria) Struthers, who has a new TV series debuting this fall, will cut her birthday cake today after removing some 34 candles

Peter Duchin, in the meantime, will have the glow of 45 tapers on his piano as he tickles the ivories.

Another July 28th-er, old-time crooner Rudy Vallee, just might be reminiscing with "My Time is Your Time" as he flips the 81st page on the calendar of life.

Ninety years have gone by since William (The Thin Man) Powell was brought into the world in Pittsburgh, Pa. and 58 since the stork called in Los Angeles and left Robert Horton — both on July 29.

Bringing the month to a close is actor Don Murray who'll be 53 on the 31st.

As to their personalities, experts in the field of horoscopes tell us the Leo female subscribes to the belief that a woman can never be too thin — or too rich (is Jackie O a Leo, do you suppose?) They love life, parties, people and usually see the world as a brilliant wide-screen movie. Their constant gaiety and enthusiasm dazzle the crowds of people moving through their lives.

However, they are snobs! The appearance of power and wealth are very important and if the substance is lacking, the facade will often do. They are known for fierce tempers and can thoroughly intimidate those around them. They have a queen complex that makes them self-centered, egotistical, childish and outrageously haughty.

They are independent, ambitious and highly goal-oriented — leadership being uppermost on the scale. Their difficulty is that they cannot appreciate success on a small scale.

Leo men are basically generous and protective and are easy prey to the femme fatale feigning helplessness and vulnerability. Despite occasional bursts of temper, they are pretty much good-natured and life-loving. When they DO lose their temper, they tend to fire people from their lives. Their lack of patience with the more timid souls around them will cause them to stalk away fuming and fretting. The least they demand is that their associates be psychic because it takes too much time to answer their questions.

They are definitely the marrying kind and probably try to father their wives as well as their children. They are strong, dependable, honest types but, unfortunately, their basic credo is that all the world is their servant.

For both sexes, "success" is their astrological name. They feel they were born to sit on a throne and tell others what to do. Mediocrity drives them to despair.

THE BOTTOM LINE: If you think your golf swing is free of faults, don't play the game with a wife who's taking golfing lessons from the club pro.

MR. AND MRS. OSBORN HANSON

Hansons mark golden year

The 50th anniversary of their marriage on June 18, 1932 in Denton was marked by Osborn and Dorothy Hanson of 514 Woodstock, Cement City, at a dinner-dance reception June 13 at the Jackson Elks Lodge #113 in Jackson.

Former Belleville residents, the Hansons were honored by their children, Donovan and Shirley Hanson of Jackson and Jeff and Marti Hritz of Cement City, and their five grandchildren.

Guests congratulating the golden wedding couple were from Flint, Taylor, Warren, Saline, Ann Arbor, Addison, Jackson, Cement City, Ypsilanti and Belleville. Anniversary greetings received by the Hansons included a card from President and Mrs. Ronald Reagan.

Mr. Hanson is retired from North Central Airlines at Detroit Metro Airport and his wife is retired from Van Buren Public Schools.

Vacationers return from East, North

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mrs. Justin Emerson recently returned from Norwalk, Conn. where she had spent three weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groeschner, while the latter was convalescing from minor surgery.

Mrs. Ruth Carter and sister, Mrs. Ethel Harris, have returned after enjoying a vacation in Northern Michigan and spending some time camping with Mrs. Harris' daughter, Doris Jean Colucci, at Lake City. They also visited their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ruppel at Lake City. They were in Traverse City for the Cherry Festival, visited Mrs. Carter's son, Warren and wife, and a granddaughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Stachnek, also at Traverse City.

Mrs. Harold Klaiss of River Rouge was an overnight guest last Sunday of Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty street.

Mrs. Russell (Laura) Buck underwent major surgery at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital July 16. Her son, Dr. James Buck of Baltimore, Md., arrived to be with his family during the surgery. At present writing Laura is in serious condition.

Mrs. Juanita Akers returned home recently from Leesburg, Va. where she had spent the past 10 days with her son, Roy and his wife, Margaret. While there she had the pleasure of visiting with her granddaughter, Debra Warner, who came down from New York City for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Arnold of Corning, Ark. were guests last week of Mrs. Arnold's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hursel Pond of Borgman street.

After having been a patient at Beyer Hospital for some time, Mrs. Irwin Stech returned to her home on Robbe Avenue July 16.

On Sunday, July 18, Mrs. S.C. Pierman and family, Mrs. Scott Preuninger of Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. Jon McClory of Northville, were in Ottawa, Ohio to attend the 100th anniversary celebration of Riley Creek United Methodist Church at Pandora where the Pierman family attended services for many years. They enjoyed a carry-in dinner and visiting with many relatives and long-time friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr were hosts at the Orr family reunion at their home July 18. Forty-three members were present for the 2 o'clock dinner coming from Lincoln Park, Southgate, Trenton, Algonac, Oscoda, Port Huron, Durand, Lansing and Oberlin, Ohio.

Mrs. Ted (Eva) Luper returned recently from South Bend, Ind. where she had attended memorial services at Zion United Church of Christ for her sister's husband, Martin Hallsinger, who passed away suddenly July 8 in Florida. Masonic services were also held at the graveside on July 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKelvey entertained members of the Cook-Royer Club for a corn roast and cook-out at their home July 18. Members, who are Past Matrons and Past Patrons of OES, years 1980-1981, came from Farmington, Detroit, Dearborn, Wayne, Taylor and Lincoln Park.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robson and grandsons with Mr.

Robson's sister, Mrs. Marguerite Heywood of Farmington Hills, were Sunday dinner guests of the former's daughter and husband, the Don Zimmers of Charlotte. David and Craig Robson remained to spend a week with their cousins.

Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Emerson and son, Michael of Lansing, were recent overnight guests of the former's parents, Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson of Madelon Street.

Fall altar date set

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Mitton of Fayette, Ohio, formerly of Romulus, announce the engagement of their daughter, Victoria, to John S. Shaffer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaffer of Stryker, Ohio.

The bride-elect, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Iva Mitton of Romulus, plans to receive her master of science degree in microbiology from Ohio State University this summer.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Ohio State University College of Law, is an attorney practicing with the firm of Newcomer, Shaffer, Geesey and Hutton in Bryan, Ohio.

A September wedding is being planned.

MISS MITTON

Chalk drawing contest is held at Belleville Library

The afternoon of July 16 found over 40 kids gathered on the patio of the Fred C. Fischer Library in Belleville, ready and eager to participate in a chalk drawing contest. Participants in the summer reading club, "Camp Wanna Read a Book", each picked a patio square and proceeded to do a colorful chalk drawing.

Blackburn, Isabell married in Taylor

The Sunset Church of Christ in Taylor was the setting June 25 for the double ring rite which joined Angela Denise Isabell and Todd Scott Blackburn in holy matrimony.

The six o'clock rite was conducted by The Rev. Benny Morton before some 40 assembled relatives and friends who later attended a reception at the Real McCoy's Restaurant in Taylor.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Isabell of 15082 Mesaway, Romulus, the bride was presented in marriage by her father. Accenting her Victorian mode lace gown were a bridal veil secured by a wreath of rosebuds and a bouquet of powder blue and white carnations.

The honor attendant, Sharen Trotter of Romulus, wore a toe-touching powder blue gown with a lace jacket and carried three white roses.

Tammy Isabell of Romulus in identical attire washer sister's only bridesmaid. Five-year old Amber Trotter of Romulus wore a white frock and carried blue and white flowers for her role as flower girl.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blackburn of 7375 Hollywood, Romulus, the bridegroom chose his brother, Carlos C. Blackburn of Romulus, to be bestman. Chad Blackburn and Douglas Isabell, brothers of the bride couple, were ushers.

Mrs. Isabell wore a burgundy and white ensemble and the bridegroom's mother was in blue and white for the occasion. Both were present4d with corsages of blue and white carnations and baby's breath.

Now living at 15086 Mesaway, Romulus, the newlyweds spent a week honeymooning in Ohio.

Both young people are Romulus High School graduates, the bride now working at the Van Buren Convalescent Home and her bridegroom at the Oakbrook Townhouses in Romulus.

Kids and kids

Some kids are raising kids these days, thanks to the generosity of Ron and Ellen Rees of New Boston. Three of Ellen's 4-H Club members from the Miss Amigos 4-H Club needed sponsors for their market goat projects and Mrs. Rees loaned these three young ladies the money to purchase goat kids this spring. Melissa Bussard (below), a 13-year-old student at Huron High, is busy getting her market goat, Honey, ready for the Wayne County Fair to be held in Belleville the week of Aug. 9 Elizabeth Rutledge, (above, at right), a recent graduate of Flat Rock High School, plans to enter her goat, Tina, in the market classes at the Fair this year. Liz will also be showing horses and fancy chickens. Val Platpir, 18-year-old 4-Her will also be in the market goat class with her kid, Henry. She will be showing horses, and dogs as well. Val is a 1982 graduate of Woodhaven High School, and plans on attending Michigan State University in the fall. You can catch these three in the market goat class at Fair week in August. Is there anything more entertaining than kids with kids?

Capt. Genaw retires from Air Force

The U.S. Air Force has announced the retirement of Capt. Edward G. Genaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Genaw of 12120 Sharon St., Romulus, after 22 years service.

Genaw served as a contracting officer at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., prior to retiring.

He received his master's degree in 1979 from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Pfc. Mark W. Hammond, son of George and Mildred Hammond of 13425 Lenmore, Belleville, has arrived for duty at Fort Hood, Texas.

Hammond, a tracked-vehicle mechanic with the 2nd Armored Division, was previously assigned in South Korea.

He is a 1979 graduate of Belleville High School.

Airman Theodore S. Ruggirello, son of Sam and Zella Ruggirello of 9408 Van Buren, Belleville, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

He is a 1981 graduate of Belleville High School.

HURON TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETING MINUTES OF JULY 14, 1982

The regular meeting of the Huron Township Board was held in the Huron Township Hall, 37290 Huron River Drive, New Boston. The meeting was called to order by Supervisor Sullivan at 8:00 P.M.

The pledge of allegiance was led by Donald Foster.

Roll Call: Ashby, Bates, Carey, Gamber, Geierman, Puskar, Sullivan — all present.

#714-1 Public Forum - Kevin Krzyske from Waltz Improvement Association.

A group of approximately 25 persons from the Waltz Improvement Association attended the Board meeting to express their displeasure with the Police Chief's actions in closing down their gambling tables at the Waltz Homecoming over the weekend (July 8-11). They admitted that they did not have the proper licensing/permits from the Michigan State Lottery Division. Kevin Krzyske was their appointed spokesman and read a prepared statement listing several allegations about the incident. Stating that the Police Chief did not close down "All" the gambling, just their tables, and that they had been treated unfairly and they wanted the Board to "make a motion to at least demote Joe Carney from the position of Chief of Police and encourage the Board to appoint a more consistent, fair and respectable man in his position". Their reasoning for this is that Mr. Carney did not close down the Fire Department's "jar game" and a "quarter slide", but did close down the "gaming tables" and "dice games".

There was a very lengthy discussion between the people in the audience and the Township Board. It was brought out that the gambling tables were private property of an outside person who promised to give the Waltz Improvement Association 50% of the take for the weekend. The Association was planning to use their funds to improve their park, and were understandably upset when the gaming tables were ordered off the property because they were illegal. However, the Association was assured that if they obtain all of the legal permits in the future, they would be allowed to have the gambling tables at the Homecoming.

Chief Carney stated that he had discussed the matter with several members of the Association on Thursday night and asked them if they had a State permit for the gambling and was told that they did not. He then explained to them they would have to remove the "gaming tables" from the premises, that those devices are illegal and could present some very serious problems for everyone involved.

On Friday morning, members of the Association contacted several members of the Township Board and asked them to intercede in their behalf. Statements were made that some members of the Board indicated to the Association that they would tell the Chief to take a vacation, or turn his head and pretend not to see what was going on. Some members of the Board refused to go along with this idea of choosing "which laws" should be enforced and which shouldn't.

Mrs. Hampton, Dr. LeCesne join Barden Board of Directors

GRACE HAMPTON

Don H. Barden, President of Barden Cablevision of Inkster, Inc., is pleased to introduce to Inkster and adjacent communities two dynamic professionals who were appointed to the company's Board of Directors.

"Barden Cablevision of Inkster, Inc., Michigan's only minority-owned cable television company, is proud to have such distinguished Board members as Mrs. Grace R. Hampton and Dr. Terrel M. LeCesne," said Barden.

"Given their outstanding contributions to Inkster and adjacent communities and their conscientious efforts to assist developing the finest cable television system in the State of Michigan, we are confident that they will be instrumental in lending excellent counsel, support, and assistance in shaping the policies of Barden Cablevision of Inkster, Inc.," he added.

Dr. LeCesne, whose name has become synonymous with education, has spent the past 25 years demonstrating his genuine concern and dedication to the City of Inkster and adjacent communities through his past participation as Mayor of the City of Inkster, councilman, school principal, teacher, and various other distinguished positions. He is currently serving as a visiting instructor for Eastern Michigan University and Assistant Superintendent of Romulus Schools.

In recognition of his educational achievements, Dr. LeCesne was recently named Citizen of the Year by the Inkster Alumnae Chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta Society, and has received numerous civic and professional awards including special honors from the State of Michigan Senate and House of Representatives for special community service.

Dr. LeCesne has also published many articles in educational and professional magazines. He resides in Inkster.

Mrs. Hampton, also a resident of Inkster, has been afforded the distinction of being one of the most dynamic personalities in the Inks-ter community because of her involvement in civic and political affairs.

Mrs. Hampton has dedicated two decades of service as an Administrative Staff Member for the United Automobile Workers (U.A.W.) and has been re-appointed by the State of Michigan as Chairperson of the Wayne County Road Commission for an additional six-year term. She is the first woman to hold this distinguished position.

Mrs. Hampton has also served since 1964 as Executive Board member of the 15th District Democratic Party organization and the Michigan Democratic Party State Central Committee.

Canton reassessment may prove costly to taxpayers

The proposed reassessment of Canton Township came in for some strong comment at the regular meeting of the Township Board of Trustees last week.

Supervisor James Poole commented that he had to date interviewed three professional assessment firms and the minimum fee quoted on the re-evaluation process for Canton was $150,000.

"A reassessment is far overdue in the township," Poole commented, "but we are going to have to spend a great deal of money to save a little or just break even."

Township Clerk John Flodin noted that the township would be the governing body least benefitted by the action of reassessment. "We will spend a minimum of $150,000 for a net gain of not more than $10,000 or $20,000. The impact on the schools will be much more significant, but unfortunately provisions of government do not provide for the schools to participate in the reassessment process.

"Historically the township has been the bad guy as we are the collecting agents for all other units of government. It's a shame that schools don't collect their taxes, the county theirs and the community college theirs. Maybe then taxpayers would see where the money is really going," Flodin continued.

Flodin added that he knew such a proposal was "ridiculous" but felt very sincerely that people did not have any idea where tax money went or which areas of government really received the revenues. "People don't know," he stated emphatically.

"Well, if each body collected their own, I'd never have anybody in my office complaining — they'd all be somewhere else," Poole commented. "We collect the least amount of revenue and yet we will pay for the assessment. It's like being in a barrel of wildcats, no matter which way you turn you will get bit."

Poole added that the recent re-evaluation performed by the board of review had been deemed unacceptable by Wayne County and that that issue will probably be resolved in the courts. "If so, I can go to the court and say, 'Here is a professional re-assessment. I have to have a reassessment to be able to defend our tax reductions in court. I don't like it, but I don't see any other way," Poole said.

He added that theoretically assessments should go down, but that in his opinion it would be difficult to find any politician who wants a millage reduction. "Even though it should go down," Poole said, "I'll be happy if it stays the same."

Present plans provide for the reassessment of all residential property first, followed by the commercial lands and then industrial sites in the township. The board made no decision on the matter but will discuss the issue further at a future board meeting.

Chaplains and 'the stress'

"Why is it that every time I talk to you I feel that I ought to salute,"

The quote, from an angry wife, might have been heard at a military base but it was, in reality, uttered during an argument in a policeman's home.

It was used to illustrate the presence of stress in modern police work. This topic of stress was one of many relevant issues dealt with in a Toronto meeting of the International Conference of Police Chaplains, July 12-16.

The chief chaplain for the Inkster Police Department, Rev. William J. Joyce, was one of eighty delegates from the English-speaking world at this ninth annual seminar of the ICPC. Chaplains from Australia, New Zealand, thirty-one states and several Canadian Provinces were present.

In addition to Stress other seminar topics were: domestic violence and crisis situations; police alcoholism and drug abuse; the police and minority groups, and community relations. All were dealt with from a police chaplain's perspective.

When asked to give his main impression, Joyce said:

Realtor Board warns

Flat rate income tax proposals may threaten ability to own homes

The bandwagon forming for a flat rate income tax should be a matter of concern for most homeowners, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

"I think nearly everyone would like to see a more simplified tax system, particularly one that would eliminate some of the present loopholes," said Lloyd Mason, WWOCBR president.

"Many of the proposals currently being debated in Washington look good on the surface but, when it comes down to the bottom line, middle income taxpayers would again bear the brunt. Some of these proposals would eliminate such deductions as those for home mortgage interest paid. This would be a sad mistake and bring further harm to many citizens already hard hit by current economic conditions."

Mason said there appears to be little expectation that a flat rate system will be adopted any time soon, but that both present and prospective homeowners should be made aware of the potential impact of such action.

"In recent years, most home buyers have had to rely on the tax benefits of ownership to make such a purchase possible," he said. "They made such commitments with the expectation that the tax saving would continue through the life of their mortgage. If such benefits were suddenly dropped, many of these owners could no longer afford the payments even at a lower prevailing tax rate."

Mason noted that some current proposals recognize this fact and would continue to permit deductions for mortgage interest payments.

"The modified flat rate plan being advanced by Senator Bill Bradley of New Jersey and Missouri Representative Richard Gephardt seems to be the best of the current crop in our view," he said. "While setting a flat rate between 14 and 28 percent depending on income, it also would retain many present tax deductions. Included would be those for mortgage interest, income from social security and veterans' benefits, state and local tax payments and donations to charity.

"Home ownership and this year's Individual Retirement

Accounts represent the only real tax shelters available to most middle income taxpayers. Adoption of any plan that would further threaten the

New Boston net star

With a Class C-D state high school championship behind her, New Boston's Kara Rogalle (at left) is seeking to add a few more gems to her tennis crown. Miss Rogalle, who is a senior at Greenhills School in Ann Arbor, competed in the Monroe County regional championships and came away a 6-4, 6-2 winner over host, Carrie Sconoclia in the girls singles finals. Carrie is the No. 1 stick for Monroe's St. Mary's and Kara will take on that role when she returns to her respective school this fall. Last year, Miss Rogalle emerged with a Class C-D gold medal in doubles' competition.

Local farmers take note:

New requirements for farm storage facility loans set

Local farmers should take note that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will resume approval of new applications for Commodity Credit Corporation farm storage facility loans, up to a total of $40 million.

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said this will allow farmers to begin making their storage plans for 1982 crops. Loan disbursement will begin after October 1, he said.

No storage facility loan applications made since February 8 have been approved "to permit the department to review program regulations in light of changes in the legislation authorizing the program," Block said.

Now that this review has been completed, Block said the following modified requirements will apply:

— storage needs of loan applicants will be based upon availability of storage for one year's production of wheat, feed grains or rice produced on farms participating in the acreage reduction program for those crops. The production of rye, soybeans, dry edible beans, peanuts, sunflower seeds, high moisture forage and silage will not be considered.

— new CCC storage loans will be limited to $25,000 per farmer. Loans will be considered for one year's storage needs and will be repayable in five years. Loans will be available for building new storage structures and for remodeling existing structures but not for electrical, handling, or drying equipment. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committees may approve loans for up to seventy percent of the eligible cost items. Ineligible items which are an integral part of the structure must be paid in full before loan disbursement.

— an extended interim rule requesting comments on the new eligibility requirements will be published in the Federal Register. All comments from the public concerning the regulation will be considered before the department publishes the final rule.

Block said that producers with pending applications will be given the opportunity to revise them based upon the new program requirements.

MARGARET SAVAGE

LORI ANNE SUMMERFIELD

Romulus softballers picked All-Regional

Two outstanding members of the Romulus High girls' softball team received post season honors.

Lori Anne Summerfield and Margaret Savage who led the Eagles to a 26-8 won-lost record were named to the All-Regional teams and also were awarded All-State consideration.

Margaret batted .451 for Coach Fred Coleman's club and also was a superb defensive player, holding down the catching responsibilities. She managed to throw out 22 of the 2 players who attempted to steal on her.

Miss Savage also knocked in 38 runs during the season.

Miss Summerfield also had a tremendous year at the plate, hitting near the .500 mark and called "one of the finest all-around players I have ever coached," Coleman said.

Police chaplains talk about stress on job

pression of the conference, Father Joyce replied: "This get-together provided a realistic definition of the police chaplain. It showed how we must know more about the work setting of the officer in order to understand his or her problems. The agenda topics may fit any occupation but in police work they are magnified. I return to Inkster with a renewed sense of purpose in our chaplaincy."

Chief Anderson C. Young of the Inkster Police Department is responsible for having the chief chaplain sent to the international meeting each year.

He says: "I want to stress the importance of having an Inkster chaplain in attendance at these meetings. It provides a way of broadening our knowledge, or giving new insights, and of being part of an international exchange of concepts about the chaplaincy itself. The annual seminar is a clearing house for all this."

Father Peter Q. Golden, former pastor of St. Clement's Church in Inkster was the first police chaplain commissioned by the city. When he left for a Chicago assignment Father Joyce was appointed chief chaplain. The other Inkster police chaplains are: Rev. John D. Hern, Peoples' Community Baptist Church; Rev. David Huber, Our Master Lutheran Church; Rev. Vincent Matthews, Pentecostal Temple, and Rev. Donna Osterhous, Christ United Methodist Church. Father Joyce is pastor of Holy Family Church.

The Toronto Seminar was held at St. Augustine's Catholic Seminary in the Scarborough section of that city. Officials from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Ontario Provincial Police and the Metropolitan Toronto Police Dept. assisted in the programs.

The initial quote above, dealing with saluting, was used by Dr. Pierre Turgeon of Ottawa in his workshop on The Police Officer and His/Her Family. He said that he would like to make a present for each new police officer, a coat rack! It would be placed outside the entrance to the home. The uniform, and the worries connected with police work, would be placed upon that symbolic coat rack.

He urged officers to select one day of the week as a special day for his or her spouse. He suggested, on occasion, to have a separate table prepared at home for a meal apart from the children. Doctor Turgeon is the son and grandson of police officers. From his own family experiences he came to the conclusion that "it is not the days children remember, it is the moments."

This was illustrated by telling how glad he felt when his father would come, in uniform, to the stands of a football field and just wave at him. The father could not stay long but he did take the time to show an interest in his son's football games.

The Chaplain's Seminar was not confined to the walls of the seminary. One evening a "Ride-along" was arranged for the delegates. Each chaplain was able to ride in a police car with a Toronto officer in the evening. Father Joyce's tour led through the city's "Chinatown" where everything was quiet, to the city's "Entertainment" sector where all was not so quiet. His guide was a West Indian officer, born in the island of Barbados, who had served some 16 years on the Toronto force.

Other evenings were spent on a Harbor Cruise (or "Harbour" as Canadians spell it), a visit to Ontario Place and a Cinesphere travel movie, and a convention banquet at the Metropolitan Toronto Police Association Building.

Each day began with a Catholic Mass and Protestant Devotions. A Memorial Service was held one afternoon in honor of fallen police officers, those who had died in the line of duty in the past year. The list included close to seventy officers from the United States. Three were from Michigan.

The tenth annual Seminar, to be held in the summer of 1983, will be hosted in Asheville, North Carolina.

Romulus hosts Red Wings in 'Celebrity match'

The Detroit Red Wings will invade Romulus this week and they won't bring their skates with them.

The Wings will play in the fourth Annual Celebrity Softball Day Game scheduled for Sat., July 31 at Elmer Johnson Park. Facing the Wings in a triple feature is a team made up of the Detroit Sports Broadcaster Association.

The second game will feature a Romulus Women's All-Star team vs. a Wayne All-Star club.

A "grudge match" between the City of Romulus employees and the Romulus Chamber of Commerce is also scheduled for that day.

Games will begin at noon.

For further information, please contact the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department at 941-0666, extension 254.

From where Claud Johnston stood, he had little and no chance of winning.

But the 45-year-old Westlander put together two rounds of "pretty solid golf" on Saturday and Sunday to capture the 1982 City Championship Golf Championship staged during perfect weather on excellent grounds at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton Township.

Johnston, who had competed only in four other City Championships in the past, carded a three-over-par 75 the first day to trail Romulus' Tom Singer who fired an even par 72 for the first 18 holes.

While Singer's game fell apart during the finals — he took a 78, Johnston came back and carded a 74 for a two day total of 149. That total was one stroke better than Wayne's durable Ray Ostyn who turned in a 150 to claim Wayne's City Championship and also the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy.

"I really didn't feel the pressure as I have in the past tournaments," Johnston said. "You know I felt that if I sank my last putt I would win it, and I missed it."

Despite the errant putt, Johnston checked in with the 149, good enough for medalist honors.

More than 100 golfers competed in the 23rd annual City Golf Championships held to determine the city championships for the communities of Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster, Canton Township and Romulus.

It was, moreover, a historic meet. For the first time in the 23 years of the competitions Romulus residents also were invited to participate.

Singer, who shot a 150 to finish a shot off the pace, because his city's first amateur city champ.

Johnston had praise for the course and the competitors.

"I thought the course was in excellent condition and the greens have never been better," he said. "But I think that 440-yard No. 2 hole into the wind gave all of us a lot of frustration these past two days."

Johnston credited his wife, Linda, with the success of his game.

"I feel that she's just one great sport. You know I hear how other golfers complain about their wives not letting them get out and play, but Linda never hassles me. Never puts any kind of pressure on me to do things and that really helps a guy."

Although Ostyn was one shot back, he said a shaky first round where he checked in with a 76 led to his demise.

"I knew that I had a chance to win this thing," Ostyn said, "and I felt I played much better the second day. However, when you play 'catch up' in this kind of sport, you're going to feel it and pay the price."

In the duel for Canton's championship, five stayed in contention right to the last. But Darryl Newsome emerged from the field with a one-stroke edge over Tim Ross. Newsome's 151 (73-78) stood up to win it.

Breathing down Newsome's neck during the 36 holes were Tim Ross (152), Matt Wiley (153) who was the defending champ for the tournament and Phil Smith, who also carded a 153.

Rich Dicesore posted a 164, one stroke better than runners-up James Colleran and Willie Jackson to capture the Inkster title while Richard Hunter had an eight stroke advantage over his nearest competitor to claim the Garden City Championship.

Hunter turned in with a 161, beating out Tom Humphrey for top honors.

"I was pleased to hear the comments by those who competed in this year's tournament," said Bill Hawley, tournament manager. "I don't think there was a negative remark about the competition, and I know that most of these guys will be back next year."

"Everything was perfect, even the weather cooperated," Hawley concluded.

2 teams battle for 'A' title

Mr. Steak made sure that the Wayne Class A Women's softball league title race would remain a two-team affair.

Scoring four times in the second inning, Mr. Steak handed league-leading Tastee Freeze a 5-1 setback and closed the gap on the pacesetter.

Tastee Freeze now sports a 10-2 won-lost ratio and isn't out of reach of Mr. Steak which pulled within a game of the front-runner.

Anne Ceane led the winners with a single and double and knocked in one run, while Betty Riggs scattered four Tastee Freeze hits, two of those to losing pitcher Pat Bledsoe to chalk up the victory.

In the meantime, Tastee Freeze took its frustration out on Greg's as it posted a lopsided 16-4 victory over their hapless rivals to stay atop of its league.

Bledsoe was the winner, scattering eight hits.

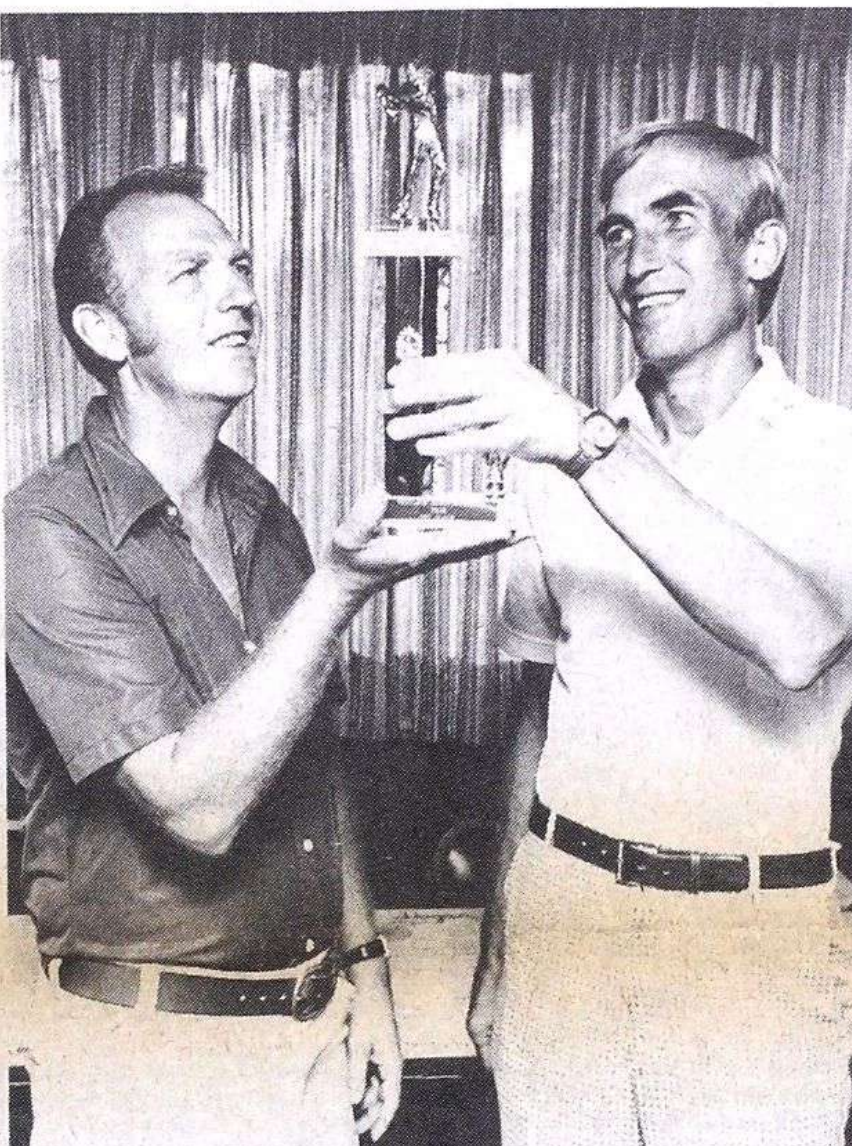

Tastee Freeze pounded losing pitcher Wendy Addly for 19 hits, including three hits by Wendy Reynolds who connected for a pair of triples and a double.

Due Sano checked in with three singles and Kim Schwartz had a single and triple while Lisa Hathorne sliced two hits for the winners. The best Greg's could do at the plate was a single and triple off the bat of Lisa Mondock.

In other Class A action, Second Street Market earned its seventh victory in 11 trips at the expense of last place Reighard International, 10-2. Jan Gearhart was the winning pitcher and she received ample hitting support from Jeri Starrs who homered and singled.

Diane Merritt turned in with two hits, one going for a three-bagger while Donna Goodrich connected for two hits and drove in two runs.

Mr. Steak turned 18 hits into an 18-3 victory over Reighard's as Tanya Rumble paced the hitting assault with five hits.

Out of the past

In the 23 years that the tournament has been staged, Westlander Claud Johnston (at left) has competed for the City Golf Championship crown only four times, winning it back in 1973. Johnston came out of the past and from a field of more than 100 golfers to capture medalist honors with a 149 score, edging Wayne's Ray Ostyn for the prestigious Western Wayne title. Above Bill Hawley (at right) makes the trophy presentation to the tournament champ.

WYAA sets physicals

If you plan to play for a Westland Youth Athletic Association little league football team this fall, it's time for physical examinations.

Physicals will be conducted from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., Sat., Aug. 7 at the Bailey Recreation Center.

WYAA is seeking prospective gridders in the 9 to 13 age group for its little league football program and 13 to 15 years for its senior division.

Telephone Richard Foy at 261-5342 for further information.

Tops in Wayne

The best of the Wayne contingent at the 23rd annual City Championship Golf Tournament included city champ Ray Ostyn (center) whose 150 total also earned for him the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy. At the left is runner-up for the Wayne championship flight

Steve Zaidel who carded a 154 and third place finisher Mike Luzaich who turned in a 158. The top five golfers in the championship flights will advance to Battle Creek on Sept. 25 to compete for the Michigan Recreation & Parks state championship.

A coveted victory

Since 1974, the Patrolman Leonard Anderson Memorial Trophy has been awarded nine separate times and Ray Ostyn (at left) became its latest recipient when he fired a 150 total for 36 holes to capture top honors for Wayne during the 1982 City Championship Golf Tournament. The trophy is awarded to the Wayne golfer the best score and is in memory of Patrolman Anderson, the first Wayne police officer to lose his life during the line of duty. Above, Lt. William Whitworth makes the presentation to Ostyn after the tournament at Fellows Creek.

Best of Westland

With more than half of the 110 golfers in the annual tournament from Westland, the leaders found the going rough Sunday at the 23rd annual City Golf Championships which ended with Westlander Claud Johnston (center) not only capturing medalist honors for the entire meet but also emerging with the city crown. Johnston is flanked by runner-up Murray Brooks (at left) who shot a 158 for the 36-holes and third place finisher Dick Hodges who had a 159 for the meet. The top five golfers will advance to the Michigan Parks and Recreation's state tournament to be staged in September in Battle Creek.

Canton's champs

Canton Township golfers were amongst the over-all leaders at the City Championship Golf Tournament staged on the home turf at Fellows Creek Golf Club over the weekend. Although they surrendered the over-all medalist honors to Westlander Claud Johnston, first-round leader Darryl Newsone finished with a 151 to claim the township title. Runner-up was Jim Ross (at left), who was one stroke back, while the 1981 defending champ of the tournament, Matt Wiley (at right) wound up with a 153 for the 36-hole meet.

Garden City hosts Colt zone tourney

For the second consecutive year, Garden City will host the Colt Zone Baseball Tournament on August 5 through Aug. 8.

The tournament, comprised of teams chosen from amongst the 12 states in the zone, will decide who will represent the North Zone of the United States in the 1982 Colt World Series.

"We are very proud of our 15-16 year old Colt team and honored to once again host this exciting tournament," said Pat Felts.

All games will be played at Garden City Park Diamond #5, located on Cherry Hill just east of Merriman.

The games will be played at 6 and 8:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, 1:00 and 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, and a 1 p.m. game on Sunday if necessary.

For further information, please call

421-0610 (Maplewood Community Center), or call the GCYAA office at 522-7360.

Want to run 5-miles

The fourth annual Canton Country Festival Five Mile Run is scheduled at 9 a.m. Aug. 7 with a start at the Township Administration Building, 1150 Canton Center Road, and a finish at Griffin Park.

A special hat of the Country Festival will be given to the first 400 participants and medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in various age groups.

To register for the run, contact the sponsoring Cantn Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 Canton Center Road.

Further race information can be obtained by contacting Recreation Supervisor Bob Dates at 397-1000 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Flat Rock goes for Grand Prix ...again

With cooperation from the weatherman, Flat Rock Speedway will once again attempt to host the Michigan Short Track Grand Prix on Saturday evening, July 31.

The event has been cancelled twice due to inclement weather at the track. Hopefully the third time will be the charm for competitors and race fans alike.

The International Competitive Auto Racing (ICAR) Supermodified/Sprints are the feature attraction July 31. The super-fast open wheel machines will be competing in a dash, heats, and a 40 lap feature on the high-banked ¼ mile asphalt oval.

Flat Rock Speedway's 3 division-the Late Models, Figure 8's, and the Street Stocks, will also be in action that evening. The Street Stocks will be competing in feature events only, with full programs slated for the Late Models and Figure 8's.

A celebrity race has also been added to the card for the Grand Prix. Entries include Anita Crone of the Mellus Newspapers; Larry Martin and Mike Callanan of WSDS Radio in Ypsilanti; Don Gonyea of WYMO Radio in Monroe; and Paul Schaefer of the Mid-American Auto Racing News. Other participants will be announced next week.

Time trials for the Michigan Short Track Grand Prix will start at 6:30, with racing to begin at 8:00 p.m. The track is located 1 mile south of Flat Rock on Telegraph Road (U.S. 24).

In action last week, Bob Fox of Royal Oak, John Briggs of Ypsilanti, and John Wyman of Carleton were Mid-Season Championship feature winners in their respective divisions Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway.

Fox scored his first win of 1982 in the 50 lap late Model main event. Fox took the lead from Harold Cook of Sylvania, Ohio on lap 12, and sailed on to the win in his new By-Rite Oil Camaro. The race was marred by numerous cautions flags on the warm, humid evening.

Ed Hage of Ypsilanti held off 3 of his competitors to grab second spot. Perry Younce of Plymouth was right behind in third.

WSDS Radio Night is slated for this Saturday evening at Flat Rock Speedway. 3 big prizes will be given away, including a trip for 2 to Toronto courtesy of Wayne Motor Supply in Westland. Detroit Tiger Milt Wilcox will be on hand to draw the winning names.

After two days of sweat and tears, Ron Dubsky (at left) finished first in Romulus' First Flight at the City Championship Golf Tournament staged over the weekend at Fellows Creek. Dubsky is presented the first place trophy by Dennis Davidson, Romulus Parks and Recreation Director. Dubsky and his fellow golfers from Romulus made history for it was the first time in the 23 year history of the tournament that Romulus golfers took part in the invitational.

Lower Huron misses 'A' upset

Romulus City Drugs escapes with 7-6 victory

League-leading Romulus City Drugs survived a scare from upset-minded Lower Huron Chemical to win a close 7-6 decision for its 15th triumph in 16 starts in the Romulus Class A Men's Softball League.

Lower Huron, sporting a 7-9 overall record, leaped on winning pitcher Jay Barton for three runs in the opening inning, then added another three runs in the second frame to enjoy a 6-4 edge over the pacesetters.

However, the title-bound City Drugs line-up erupted for three decisive runs in the third inning to hand Paul Debuyscher the setback.

John Whaley hammered a homer and singled, making his two hits go for three runs batted in, while teammate Ron Buckley checked in with three hits, including a double and two RBIs. Carl Champagne belted two singles for the winners.

Barton served up three hits to Randy Hall, while Mike Nielson and Cliff McCurdy split four singles.

Lady Luck continued to look the other way for Lower Huron which dropped an extra inning affair, 14-12, to second place Capt. Nemo's. Nemo's trailed 8-0 after the first two innings before Lonie Fater, Jamie Hinajosa and Tom Block rallied their team back into contention.

Fater drilled a homer and two singles for two RBIs, and Hinajosa finished up with a triple and double while Block sliced four singles off of Debuyscher who was charged with the loss.

Jerry Debuyscher managed to get three singles off of winner, Ron Sumenick, who also gave up two hits each to Nielson and Mark Bratcher.

Capt. Nemo's exploded for six runs in the first inning en route to a lopsided 16-3 victory over Lower Huron for its 11th win in 15 trips. Steve Sheridan blasted three round-trippers and singled for six runs batted in. Hinajosa also belted a circuit clout and singled for three RBIs and Fater turned in with four singles and a triple. He also had four RBIs.

Winning pitcher Block held the losers to seven hits, three of those by Paul Debuyscher while Mike Britz slugged a pair of singles for the losers whose record dipped to 7-9 on the year.

Demyan Antiques titled the scoreboard 12 times in the third inning as its players pounded out 19 hits to bury the Golden Eagle Bar 16-1. Ernie Henson and Kyle Ohotske each had two hits and a homer apiece, while Scott Knope drilled three singles to help pitcher Scott Knight post the victory.

Knight served up a double to Mike Collins and also was tagged for two hits by Carl Zwillig.

Bulal's Barber Shop came up with seven runs in the first inning then held off Angie's to claim a 15-10 victory over their arch rivals. Winning hurler John Halley was tagged for 17 hits, one of those a homer by Terry Hoffman who finished up with three hits for the evening. Bob Reed and Tom Demara also collected three hits while Earl Pier latched on to two singles.

Hoffman, charged with the loss, had his problems with Eric Talley who belted a pair of homers and a double, while Mel Allen had three hits, including a double and Erving Gibson had a couple of singles.

In other Class A action, Angie's trounced Demyan's 10-2 behind Rick Fontaine's six-hit pitching effort. Fontaine delivered three of those hits — all singles — to Kyle O'Hotske — who drove in both runs.

Hoffman unleashed the long ball as he connected for two homers and four RBIs. Ernie Wright and Fontaine each had two hits for the evening.

Hinajosa pitched a rare shutout as he held Golden Eagle to three hits in Capt. Nemo's 17-3 victory. Sumenick and Dan Cordle each homered while Fater and Kevin Christensen had three hits apiece.

Griffin, who was the losing pitcher, collected one of the Eagle's three hits. Bob Newburn had the other two

CITY OF ROMULUS ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

City of Romulus, Michigan — Street Beautification located on Goddard Road south of Sterling Street.

BID NO. 82-19

The City of Romulus is requesting bids for construction of Street Beautification. The project is to be constructed in accordance with the contract documents submitted by Christopher Wzaczny & Associates, Inc. The project is to be located on Goddard Road south of Sterling Street.

U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development, Community Development Block Grant funds are being used in this project. Special attention should be given to federal requirements for federally funded projects within the contract, which include Federal Labor Standards Provisions, Executive Order #11246 of September 24, 1965, EEO Requirements and the Davis-Bacon Act.

Sealed bids are to be received no later than 3:00 P.M. on Monday, August 16, 1982, at the City of Romulus City Hall, City Clerk's Office, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174.

A pre-bid meeting will be held at a date, time and place to be announced. This project will be awarded in two contract categories — landscaping/planting and general contract. Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the City Clerk's Office, Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174, on or after 12:00 P.M. on Friday, July 23, 1982.

A payment of $15.00 if picked up; and $20.00 if mailed, will be required for each set of specifications. This sum will be nonrefundable.

The proposals must be accompanied by a certified check, or standard form of bid bond, for a sum equal to 5% of the total amount of the proposal, which sum shall be forfeited to the city by the accepted bidder upon his failure to enter into an agreement with the city within 10 days after awarded to him.

The City of Romulus reserves the right to reject any or all bids and waive any irregularities should it be deemed in the best interest to do so.

Total tops Puffer Red in duel for first place

Making most of their 11 hits, Total Petroleum turned back Puffer Red to take command in the Romulus Parks and Recreation Class A women's softball league.

The victory gave Total a 12-3 won-loss record and sole possession of first place, while Puffer's vacated the top of the standings and is seated in second with a 11-4 mark.

Puffer's drew first blood as they got to winning hurler Diana Kampsen for two runs in the bottom of the third thanks to Maria Franklin, Theresa Gibson and Kim Pitts' bats. However, Total came back and put two runs on the scoreboard in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings to win the key game.

Kampsen gave up a homer to Franklin and two hits each to Gibson and Pitts while loser, Sandy Holiday, also delivered a roundtripper to Mary Day and served up a pair of singles each to Donna Ojibway and Lisa Bratcher.

In another thriller, F.X. Coughlin rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh to edge Progressive Club 3-2 in a game that went scoreless for five complete innings. Winning pitcher Cheryl Michelin tossed a six hitter, giving up a triple and a single to Linda Madej, while Cindy Griffin had two hits for the losers.

Debbie McBride took the loss after pitching a six-hitter. She was tagged for a single and double by Nancy Fulson, while Audrey Meadows had a pair of singles.

In other Class A action, the Progressive Club came from behind to edge last place Morgan's Collision 5-3. Morgan's had the lead until the fifth when Progressive tied it up at 2-all, then Progressive broke the deadlock with a three-run surge in the top of the sixth.

Debbie Dick, with a homer and a pair of singles, led the loser's assault on winning pitcher Debbie McBride who also gave up a couple of singles to Donna Will and Mary Sparr. Loser Lisa Zrikawski had her problems with Donna Quiring who collected two singles. Nancy Maitland and Debbie Zachary each had run-scoring safeties.

Although Morgan's put four runs on the scoreboard in the first inning, Progressive came back with four in their third, then scored 10 time in the sixth for a 15-7 victory. Sharon Dudan, Donna Quiring and Nancy Maitland each had two hits for the winners who collected 19 off of loser, Lisa Zbikiwski. McBride was the winner. She had her problems again with Debbie Dick who laced a double and two singles.

Tammy Groves and Donna Merritt each had two singles for the two losers whose record fell to 2-13 on the season.

Total Collision throttled F.X. Coughlin 16-3, using a 16-hit assault upon loser Cheryl Michelin who served up three hits, including a pair of two-baggers to Anita Glaab. Sue Fritzpatrick stroked a single and a triple and drove in two runs, while Debbie Ojibway had three RBIs thanks to a single and double.

Sheri Hale turned in with a couple of singles for the losers.

In the only other Class A matchup, Total had its problems shaking a pesky F.X. Coughlin. Total scored single runs in the first, second, third, and fourth innings to beat their rivals 4-3 as pitcher Michelin digested the loss. She gave up four hits, including a double to Mary Day. Lisa Bratcher chalked up a single and double.

Day, the winning pitcher, was tagged for a pair by Bobbie Cauvin. Ann Philport had a single and double.

Last inning heroics save unbeaten Bingamen

Undefeated Bingamen Agency needed some late inning heroics to stop Drake's Lounge in their battle for league supremacy in the Romulus Open "A" League.

Drake's got to winning pitcher Norman Tinker for four runs in the first inning, then added five more in the second inning and Bingamen's appeared ripe for the upset in the early stages.

However, Bob Lambert broke loose with four roundtrippers and chased home 11 runs to pace the league leaders to a 19-15 win over their arch-rivals. Tinker also received some hitting assistance from Mike McCartney who collected two hits off of loser, Don Staples.

Staples also served up a homer, triple and a pair of singles to Lyle Chilcote who knocked in four runs.

Tinker, who gave up a total of 18 hits — two of those homers — found Earl Babler as his toughest opponent. Babler missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to connect for a three-bagger, but his homer, double and single counted for three RBIs. Dan Aman laced two singles and Johnny Johnson had a homer and single.

In other "Open A" action, Super Y Market came up with two runs in the bottom of the sixth to edge Romulus Jaycees 12-11. Winning pitcher Dale Lalonde helped his cause with a homer and three RBIs, while Pete Stroschure had a pair of singles and Steve Chazmer homered and singled off of loser, Tim Nielson.

Lalonde scattered nine hits, but three of those went to Don Makowski. Roy Hollis and John Wojick each had to safeties for the losers.

G.O.C. didn't sweat for its eighth win in nine starts as winless Federal Mogul failed to gather enough players at game time therefore forfeited.

Five-Points Club broke a last inning 7-all deadlock with a run in the bottom of their seventh to nip Govan 8-7 for their seventh win in 10 starts in the Open B League.

Govan grabbed a 6-5 lead in the third and the score remained close the rest of the way as pitchers John Mullins (Govan's) and Terry Gibson (Five-Points) remained tough in the stretch.

Gibson eventually received credit for the victory, getting some hitting help from Mark Bratcher who collected a pair of doubles and a single. Mike Nielson checked in with a single and a double.

Gibson gave up two hits each to Jerry Kammer, Mike Fitzgerald and John Wilson.

The Romulus Recreation Center put together 17 hits to stop Little Eddie's 12-4 to boost its record to 8-2 on the season. They're one-game off the pace set by league leader, Johnny's Party Store, which defeated Environ's 11-6 in their last outing.

Kurt Lendermann and Don Warren paced Romulus Rec with three hits apiece and Tom Brady turned in with a pair of singles to help Butch Tolliver post the victory. Tolliver however gave up three hits to Pete Piestrak while Bill Bemon and Pete Schlact each had run-scoring base hits.

Johnny's had to come from behind to beat the Environ who scored four times in the first inning off winner Dave Staten who scattered eight hits. Leading Johnny's attack were Don Gordon, with a single and double, and Norman Kent, who had a double and triple. Scott Knight also doubled in a run.

Staten gave up three hits each to Gary Eagan and Pete Rodhe who had his team's only extra base hit, a double.

Bilmar's and Dannon Yogart were forced to settle for a tie as each team stroked 12 hits and 15 hits. Jerry Debuyscher belted a triple, single and homer and drove in three runs for Bilmar who also received three hits from Ron Nunes and two from Mike Britz.

Gordon Silvey was tagged for six runs in the bottom of the sixth by Dannon's artillery which featured three singles by John Charnley and a double and pair of singles by Mike Hondo, who also was the pitcher of record for Dannon's. Tom Otis connected for two singles.

Huron Merchants is the 'team to beat'

With two relatively easy victories, title-seeking Huron Merchants remained the team to catch in the Romulus Women's League "B" softball circuit.

Sharon Wood, Sheila Scarborough and Sue Monaso pounded out a total of nine hits as Huron destroyed Suburban Oil 23-2, then came back and picked up a 32-3 victory over winless Brooks Cartage (0-16) for their 15th win in 17 starts.

Monaso connected for three hits, including a homer against Suburban Oil's Kaye Potkzek who gave up a total of 25 hits, including three by Ms. Scarborough who had three RBIs. Wood laced two singles.

Winning pitcher Donna Moore yielded five hits, two of those to Gail Blanchard who had a pair of singles. Kaye Keywood and Lee Wallen each had run-scoring singles.

Wood also homered against Brooks in a game cut short because of the mercy rule. Sue Fitzpatrick chipped in with two hits while Sue Mowasa had a triple and a pair of singles.

Moore gave up a two-run single to Rita Presson and also singles to Donnal Thomas and Paula Davison.

Five-Points blew an 8-1 lead against Suburban Oil which roared back in the bottom of the six with three runs, then erupted for five more in the seventh to edge their rivals 9-8. Donna McNally latched on to three singles and Joann Miller had two hits, including a double off of winner Kaye Potkzek.

Loser Cheryl Caugers was tagged for a triple and a single by Copeland while Pat Gores and Gail Blanchard each had key hits for the winners.

In other "B" action, Angies Country Inn struck for five runs in the top of the fifth and scored a tie-breaker in the seventh to stop Airtrans' Hustlers 7-6 behind Mary Much's 11-hit pitching performance.

Angies' Lisa Bratcher drove in a pair of runs with a double and a single, while Jan Mooman had a run-scoring triple. Linda Russo stroked a single off of loser Bev Carney.

Carney helped her cause with a pair of hits and mate Kelly Hamilton belted three singles and had two RBIs. Tracy Barnett carded the lone homer and also singled.

Over in the Sunday Men's League, NAPA's managed to stay perfect with a narrow 7-6 victory over Federal Mogul. The league-leader has won eight in a row and is two games up on Walter's Home Appliance. Mike Britz drilled a homer while Chuck Rumschalab collected three hits and two RBIs and team-

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES Resource Recovery Division, Box 30028, Lansing, Michigan 48909

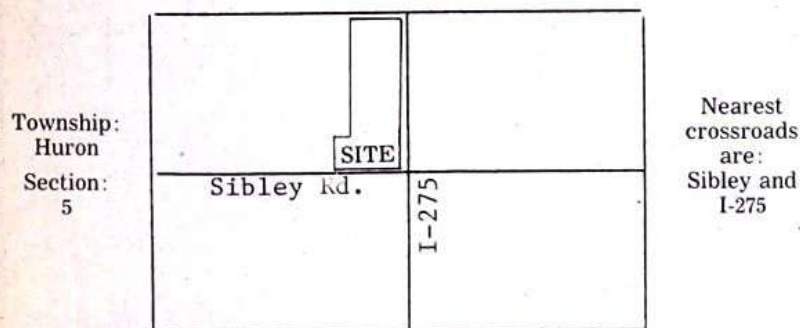

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR A CONSTRUCTION PERMIT FOR A NEW SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL AREA.

Section 11(2) (b) of Act 641, Public Act of 1978, as amended, better known as the Solid Waste Management Act, provides for a notice of application for a construction permit for a new solid waste disposal area.

The Department of Natural Resources has received an application for a construction permit for a solid waste sanitary landfill from Lyon Development Company.

The applicant proposes to construct and operate a Type II Landfill on approximately 110 acres in Huron Township.

The proposed disposal area is shown on the map below and will be located on Sibley Road at the I-275 Interchange.

The complete application package may be reviewed at the office of the Resource Recovery Division, Department of Natural Resources, 1120 W. State Fair Ave., Det. MI, 48203 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and at the Oakland County Health Dept. 1200 N. Telegraph Road, Pontiac, MI 48053.

Copies of the complete application package may be ordered from the Resource Recovery Division at the address listed above for the cost of reproduction.

The Department will hold a public hearing in the vicinity of the proposed disposal area if a request for such a hearing is submitted in writing by the applicant or the municipality involved or if a petition containing a number of signatures equaling at least 10% of the registered voters of the municipality where the project is to be located who voted in the last gubernatorial election is submitted to the Department. Such a petition shall be validated by the clerk of Huron Township. Requests for public hearings should be submitted to the Department within 30 days.
